Why Mothers Kill Geoffrey R. McKee, 2015 This title uses more than a dozen case studies to help us understand and most importantly prevent crimes where a mother murders her child It applies current research findings to analyse explain and suggest practical interventions to alter the personal familial and situational circumstances that may influence some mothers to kill With an emphasis on prevention it sets out specific strategies that might have been employed at various risk intervention points occurring before the child's death Through the use of extended narratives the resource brings to life the thoughts and emotions experienced by women in each of the five categories of mothers the author has identified from his years of practice

Motherhood in the Media Barbara Barnett, 2016-02-19 This book examines contemporary media stories about women who kill their children By analyzing media texts motherhood blogs and journalistic interviews the book seeks to understand better maternal violence and the factors that lead women to harm their children The central thesis of this book is that media practices have changed dramatically during the past 50 years as has society's views on appropriate feminine behavior yet definitions of characteristics of good mothers remain largely defined by 1950s sitcoms Victorian ideals and Christian theology The book contends that in spite of media saturation in American society and the media's increased opportunities to tell complex and nuanced stories news media narratives continue to situate maternal violence as rare unfathomable and unpredictable The news media's shift in focus from public service to profit making industry has encouraged superficial coverage of maternal violence as reporters look for stories that sell not stories that explain Motherhood blogs in contrast offer an opportunity for women to tell their own stories about motherhood based on experience Interviews with journalists offer insights into how the structure of their jobs dictates media coverage of this intimate form of violence

100 Years of the Infanticide Act Karen Brennan, Emma Milne, 2023-10-19 This book provides the first comprehensive and detailed analysis of the Infanticide Act and its impact in England and Wales and around the world It is 100 years since an Infanticide Act was first passed in England and Wales The statute re-enacted in 1938 allows for leniency to be given to women who kill their infants within the first year of life This legislation is unique and controversial it creates a specific offence and defence that is available only to women who kill their biological infants Men and other carers are not able to avail of the special mitigation provided by the Act nor are women who kill older children The collection brings together leading experts in the field to offer important insights into the history of the law how it works

today the impact and legacy of the statute and potential futures of infanticide laws around the world Contributors consider the Act in practice in England and Wales the ways it has been portrayed in the British media and justifications for and criticisms of the provision of special treatment for women who kill their infants within a year of birth It also looks at the criminal justice responses to infanticide in other jurisdictions such as Australia Ireland Sweden and the United States of America

Muirhead,2014-10-01 Maternal filicide has been discussed in the medical mental health and child abuse fields yet little research exists with a criminal justice law enforcement perspective Nevertheless criminal justice professionals responsible for investigation and prosecution of these offenders often must give attention to unique behavioral social and psychological dynamics not considered in many other types of cases The Federal Bureau of Investigation s FBI Behavioral Analysis Unit BAU III Crimes Against Children identified collected and reviewed law enforcement case files in which a biological mother killed her child ren Collectively the cases involve 213 biological mothers who killed 265 children and are comprised of neonaticide infanticide and filicide cases Data analysis revealed that the offenders ranged in age from 12 46 years and many were unmarried unemployed and had a history of violence Many of the victims were three years of age or younger did not live with their biological fathers at the time of their deaths and had a history of maltreatment most often perpetrated by their mothers In addition traditional weapons such as a firearm or knife were used less often compared to asphyxiants and blunt force instruments The authors explore the tenets of female violence the mother child dynamic and mental disorders and address the complexities associated with investigating and prosecuting maternal filicide offenders
