The Tourist In South Africa:

Tourism in the New South Africa Garth Allen, Frank Brennan, 2004-09-24 A new model of tourism development has recently emerged out of a widening concern for the environment Known variously as ecotourism new tourism socially responsible tourism huge claims are made for it in terms of what it might offer in promoting national tourism development Yet how well does this new model work in practice And what does it mean to be an international tourist encountering the cultural political and economic particularities of the South African experience Garth Allen and Frank Brennan seek to explore the realities of this new morality of tourism as experienced in four important tourist areas of KwaZulu Natal in South Africa the Greater St Lucia Wetland Park South Africa's third largest reserve and a vast and beautiful area accredited World Heritage Status the Phinda Resource Reserve renowned for its diverse habitats and rich wildlife Kosi Bay a wetland area of international importance and the Durban beachfront For the first time they try to locate the international tourist within the moral maze of tourism in the new South Africa Their analysis can be applied to other societies committed to the belief that investing in tourism development will be a fast track to economic development and will resonate with the moral challenges facing the international tourist

A History of Tourism in Africa Todd Cleveland, 2021-02-23 An engaging social history of foreign tourists dreams the African tourism industry's efforts to fulfill them and how both sides affect each other Since the nineteenth century foreign tourists and resident tourism workers in Africa have mutually relied upon notions of exoticism but from vastly different perspectives Many of the countless tourists who have traveled to the African continent fail to acknowledge or even realize that skilled African artists in the tourist industry repeatedly manufacture authentic experiences in order to fulfill foreigners often delusional or at least uninformed expectations. These carefully nurtured and controlled performances typically reinforce tourists' reductive impressions formed over centuries of the continent, its peoples, and even its wildlife. In turn, once back in their respective homelands, tourists' accounts of their travels often substantiate and thereby reinforce prevailing stereotypes of exotic Africa. Meanwhile, Africans' staged performances not only impact their own lives primarily by generating remunerative opportunities but also subject the continent's residents to objectification, exoticization, and myriad forms of exploitation.

It examines the utilisation of culture in southern African tourism and the related impacts, possibilities, and challenges from deep and wide-ranging perspectives. The chapters use case studies to showcase some of the cultural tourism which occurs in the region and link to concepts such as authenticity, commodification, the tourist gaze, and Otherness, heritage, sustainability, and sustainable livelihoods. The authors scrutinise both positive and negative impacts of cultural tourism throughout the book and explore issues including the definition of community, ethical considerations, empowerment, gender, participation, and inequality. The book will be a useful resource for students and researchers of tourism, geography, anthropology, and cultural studies.
