Without A Net A True Tale Of Prison Penthouses And Playmates:

Without a Net Michael Claibourne, Barry Hornig, 2015-10 Starving and certain that I would die in my dingy jail cell in Spain I made a deal with God I fell to my knees promising to give up all drugs and criminal activities I prayed out loud witnessed only by the urine soaked walls and huge rats that shared my cage My desperation was raw and naked I thought about the Countess I thought about my parents at home on Long Island But mostly I thought about myself Save me God and I will live virtuously and honor my family I was released early and found myself back home penniless and living in my parents basement God had kept his promise I soon broke mine Without A Net is an autobiographical road trip through a volatile period of American history Barry Hornig was a seeker and an explorer His adventures were splendid and sordid and the sort of stuff that would teach anyone a lesson This is the story of how he learned his lessons the hard way Los Angeles Magazine ,1999-07 Los Angeles magazine is a regional magazine of national stature Our combination of award winning feature writing investigative reporting service journalism and design covers the people lifestyle culture entertainment fashion art and architecture and news that define Southern California Started in the spring of 1961 Los Angeles magazine has been addressing the needs and interests of our region for 48 years The magazine continues to be the definitive resource for an affluent population that is intensely interested in a lifestyle that is uniquely Southern Californian
