recognise the diversity of practices that count as creative arts research Autobiographies Charles Darwin, 2006-04-27
The Autobiographies of Charles Darwin 1809-82 provide a fascinating glimpse into the mind of one of the world's intellectual giants. They begin with engaging memories of his childhood and youth and of his burgeoning scientific curiosity and love of the natural world which led to him joining the expedition on the Beagle. Darwin follows this with survey of his career and ends with a reckoning of his life's work. Interspersed with these recollections are fascinating portraits from his devoted wife Emma and his talented father both bullying and kind to the leading figures of the Victorian scientific world he counted among his friends including Lyell and Huxley. Honest and illuminating these memoirs reveal a man who was isolated by his controversial beliefs and whose towering achievements were attained by a life-long passion for the discoveries of science.

Darwin's Dice Curtis N. Johnson, 2015 Discusses the chance and randomness as motifs in the writing of Charles Darwin publisher Penguin Classics Penguin (Firm), 2001 Darwin-Inspired Learning Carolyn J. Boulter, Michael J. Reiss, Dawn L. Sanders, 2015-01-19 Charles Darwin has been extensively analysed and written about as a scientist, Victorian father and husband. However, this is the first book to present a carefully thought-out pedagogical approach to learning that is centered on Darwin's life and scientific practice. The ways in which Darwin developed his scientific ideas and their far-reaching effects continue to challenge and provoke contemporary teachers and learners, inspiring them to consider both how scientists work and how individual humans read nature. Darwin-inspired learning as proposed in this international collection of essays is an enquiry-based pedagogy that takes the professional practice of Charles Darwin as its source. Without seeking to idealise the man, Darwin-inspired learning places importance on active learning, hands-on enquiry, critical thinking, creativity, argumentation, interdisciplinarity. In an increasingly urbanised world, first-hand observations of living plants and animals are becoming rarer. Indeed, some commentators suggest that such encounters are under threat and children are living in a time of nature deficit. Darwin-inspired learning, with its focus on close observation and hands-on enquiry, seeks to re-engage children and young people with the living world through critical and creative thinking modeled on Darwin's life and science.

The Hypothetical Species Michael Charles Tobias, Jane Gray Morrison, 2019-03-28 This book is a provocative and invigorating real-time exploration of the future of human evolution by two of the world's leading interdisciplinary ecologists. Michael Charles Tobias and Jane Gray Morrison, steeped in a rich multitude of the sciences and humanities, the book enshrines an elegant narrative that is highly empathetic, personally scientifically wide-ranging and original. It focuses on the geo-positioning of the human Self and its corresponding species. The book's overarching viewpoints and poignant through-story examine and powerfully challenge concepts associated historically with assertions of human superiority over all other life forms. Ultimately, The Hypothetical Species: Variables of Human Evolution is a deeply considered treatise on the ecological and psychological state of humanity and her options both within and outside the rubrics of evolutionary research for survival. This important work is beautifully presented with nearly 200 diverse illustrations and is introduced with a foreword by famed

Studies of the writing of Herman Melville are often divided among those that address his political historical or biographical dimensions and those that offer creative theoretical readings of his texts In Herman Melville and the Politics of the Inhuman Michael Jonik offers a series of nuanced and ambitious philosophical readings of Melville that unite these varied approaches Through a careful reconstruction of Melville's interaction with philosophy Jonik argues that Melville develops a notion of the inhuman after Spinoza's radically non anthropocentric and relational thought Melville's own political philosophy in turn actively disassembles differences between humans and nonhumans and the animate and inanimate Jonik has us rethink not only how we read Melville but also how we understand our deeply inhuman condition The Journal of Researches by Charles Darwin - Delphi Classics \(Illustrated\) Charles Darwin, 2017-07-17 This eBook features the unabridged text of The Journal of Researches by Charles Darwin Delphi Classics Illustrated from the bestselling edition of The Complete Works of Charles Darwin Having established their name as the leading publisher of classic literature and art Delphi Classics produce publications that are individually crafted with superior formatting while introducing many rare texts for the first time in digital print The Delphi Classics edition of Darwin includes original annotations and illustrations relating to the life and works of the author as well as individual tables of contents allowing you to navigate eBooks quickly and easily eBook features The complete unabridged text of The Journal of Researches by Charles Darwin Delphi Classics Illustrated Beautifully illustrated with images related to Darwin's works Individual contents table allowing easy navigation around the eBook Excellent formatting of the text Please visit www.delphiclassics.com to learn more about our wide range of titles The Novel and the Sea Margaret Cohen, 2021-06-08 For a century the history of the novel has been written in terms of nations and territories the English novel the French novel the American novel But what if novels were viewed in terms of the seas that unite these different lands Examining works across two centuries The Novel and the Sea recounts the novel's rise told from the perspective of the ship's deck and the allure of the oceans in the modern cultural imagination Margaret Cohen moors the novel to overseas exploration and work at sea framing its emergence as a transatlantic history steeped in the adventures and risks of the maritime frontier Cohen explores how Robinson Crusoe competed with the best selling nautical literature of the time by dramatizing remarkable conditions from the wonders of unknown lands to storms shipwrecks and pirates She considers James Fenimore Cooper's refashioning of the adventure novel in postcolonial America and a change in literary poetics toward new frontiers and to the maritime labor and technology of the nineteenth century Cohen shows how Jules Verne reworked adventures at sea into science fiction how Melville Hugo and Conrad navigated the foggy waters of language and thought and how detective and spy fiction built on sea fiction's problem solving devices She also discusses the transformation of the ocean from a theater of skilled work to an environment of pristine nature and the sublime A significant literary history The Novel and the Sea challenges readers to rethink their land locked assumptions about the novel

Colonies, Cults and Evolution David Amigoni, 2007-12-06 The concept of culture now such an important term within both the arts and the sciences is a legacy of the nineteenth century By closely analyzing writings by evolutionary scientists such as Charles Darwin Alfred Russell Wallace and Herbert Spencer alongside those of literary figures including Wordsworth Coleridge Arnold Butler and Gosse David Amigoni shows how the modern concept of culture developed out of the interdisciplinary interactions between literature philosophy anthropology colonialism and in particular Darwin's theories of evolution He goes on to explore the relationship between literature and evolutionary science by arguing that culture was seen less as a singular idea or concept and more as a field of debate and conflict This fascinating book includes much material on the history of evolutionary thought and its cultural impact and will be of interest to scholars of intellectual and scientific history as well as of literature

Why Genes Are Not Selfish and People Are Nice Colin Tudge, 2013-03-21 The modern world is dominated by ideas that are threatening to kill us that life is one long battle from conception to grave that all creatures including human beings are driven by their selfish DNA that the universe is just stuff for us to use at will These ideas are seen as emerging from science and hard nosed philosophy and become self fulfilling They have led us to create a world in perpetual strife that is unjust and in many ways precarious This remarkable book by an experienced author and thinker argues there's another way of looking at the world that is just as rooted in modern science and yet says precisely the opposite that life is in fact cooperative all creatures including human beings are basically nice that there's more to the stuff of the world than meets the eye This book is both a powerful call to rethink our assumptions and a message of hope for those who believe we're doomed to self destruction
