The Subcultures Reader Second Edition:

The Subcultures Reader Ken Gelder, 2005 Revised and updated completely to include new research and theories this second edition of a hugely successful book brings together a range of articles from big names in the field classic texts and new thinking on subcultures and their definitions The Decentring of the Traditional University Russell Francis, 2012-08-21 The Decentring of the Traditional University provides a unique perspective on the implications of media change for learning and literacy that allows us to peer into the future of self education Each chapter draws on socio cultural and activity theory to investigate how resourceful students are breaking away from traditional modes of instruction and educating themselves through engagement with a globally interconnected web based participatory culture The argument is developed with reference to the findings of an ethnographic study that focused on university students informal uses of social and participatory media Each chapter draws attention to the shifting locus of agency for regulating and managing learning and describes an emergent genre of learning activity For example Francis explores how students are cultivating and nurturing globally distributed funds of living knowledge that transcend institutional boundaries and describes students learning through serious play in virtually figured worlds that support radically personalised lifelong learning agendas These stories also highlight the challenges and choices learners confront as they struggle to negotiate the faultlines of media convergence and master the new media literacies required to exploit the full potential of Web 2.0 as a learning resource Overall this compelling argument proposes that we are witnessing a period of historic systemic change in the culture of university learning as an emergent web based participatory culture starts to disrupt and displace a top down culture industry model of education that has evolved around the medium of the book As a result Francis argues that we need to reconceive higher education as an identity project in which students work on their projective identities or imagined future selves through engagement with both formal and informal learning activities Watching with The Simpsons Jonathan Gray, 2012-10-12 Using our favourite Springfield family as a case study Watching with The Simpsons examines the textual and social role of parody in offering critical commentary on other television programs and genres Jonathan Gray brings together textual theory discussions of television and the public sphere and ideas of parody and comedy Including primary audience research it focuses on how The Simpsons has been able to talk back to three of television's key genres the sitcom adverts and the news and on how it holds the potential to short circuit these genres meanings power and effects by provoking reinterpretations and offering more media literate recontextualizations Examining television and media studies theory the text of The Simpsons and the show's audience Gray attempts to fully situate the show's parody and humour within the lived realities of its audiences In doing so he further explores the possibilities for popular entertainment television to discuss issues of political and social importance A must read for any student of media studies Subcultures Ken Gelder, 2007-01-24 Ken Gelder covers a remarkable range of forms and practices across many different subcultural groups
