Using Statistics To Make Educational Decisions:

Using Statistics to Make Educational Decisions David Tanner, 2011-09-07 Government scrutiny and intensified oversight have dramatically changed the landscape of education in recent years. Observers want to know how schools compare which district is best which states are spending the most per student on education whether reforms are making a difference and why so many students are failing. Some of these questions require technical answers that educators historically redirected to outside experts but the questions leveled at all educators have become so acute and persistent that they can no longer be outsourced. This text helps educators develop the tools and the conceptual understanding needed to provide definitive answers to difficult statistical questions facing education today.

Action Research S. Michael Putnam, Tracy Rock, 2016-12-29 Action Research Using Strategic Inquiry to Improve Teaching and Learning is a core text for the Action Research course in Education. The proposed text seeks to address the needs of practitioners as it will be primarily written for use within a graduate level action research class. It will be oriented towards proactive planning as part of an organized efficient process for developing and conducting an action research study. The book will be organized around implementation of the action research process using self-regulatory principles which is characterized by four phases: task definition, goal setting and planning, enacting and adapting. These four phases will be addressed as the learner considers what action research encompasses and a topic to be studied then proceeds to establish a plan and enact it. This overall process is organized as can be seen in the Table of Contents. Michael Putnam and Tracy Rock will highlight methods and processes that incorporate formative data that is readily available to teachers facilitating associations between classroom instruction and the action research process. The text will also reinforce how action research can improve the teaching and learning process by reinforcing or changing perceptions about the use of informal data including anecdotal notes or observations in the research process.
