For decades crime novelists have set their stories in New York City a place long famed for decay danger and intrigue What happens when the mean streets of the city are no longer quite so mean In the wake of an unprecedented drop in crime in the 1990s and the real estate development boom in the early 2000s a new suspect is on the scene gentrification Thomas Heise identifies and investigates the emerging gentrification plot in contemporary crime fiction He considers recent novels that depict the sweeping transformations of five iconic neighborhoods the Lower East Side Chinatown Red Hook Harlem and Bedford Stuyvesant that have been central to African American Latinx immigrant and blue collar life in the city Heise reads works by Richard Price Henry Chang Gabriel Cohen Reggie Nadelson Ivy Pochoda Grace Edwards Ernesto Qui onez Wil Medearis and Brian Platzler tracking their representations of broken windows policing cultural erasure racial conflict class grievance and displacement Placing their novels in conversation with oral histories urban planning and policing theory he explores crime fiction s contradictory and ambivalent portrayals of the postindustrial city s dizzying metamorphoses while underscoring the material conditions of the genre A timely and powerful book The Gentrification Plot reveals how today s crime writers narrate the death or murder of a place and a way of life undergraduate and postgraduate students in Urban Planning Built Environment Urban Studies and Urban Regeneration as well as academics practitioners and politicians Public Space Design and Social Cohesion Patricia Aelbrecht, Quentin Stevens, 2019-01-22 Social cohesion is often perceived as being under threat from the increasing cultural and economic differences in contemporary cities and the increasing intensity of urban life Public space in its role as the main stage for social interactions between strangers clearly plays a role in facilitating or limiting opportunities for social cohesion But what exactly is social cohesion how is it experienced in the public realm and what role can the design of city spaces have in supporting or promoting it There are significant knowledge gaps between the social sciences and design disciplines and between academia and practice and thus a dispersed knowledge base that currently lacks nuanced insight into how urban design contributes to social integration or segregation This book brings together scholarly knowledge at the intersection of public space design and social cohesion It is based on original scholarly research and a depth of urban design practice and analyses case studies from a variety of cities and cultures across the Global North and Global South Its interdisciplinary cross cultural analysis will be of interest to academics students policymakers and practitioners engaged with a range of subject areas including urban design urban planning architecture landscape cultural studies human geography social policy sociology and anthropology It will also have significant appeal to a wider non academic readership given its topical subject matter Adaptive Strategies for Water Heritage Carola Hein, 2019-10-18 This Open Access book building on research initiated by scholars from the Leiden Delft Erasmus Centre for Global Heritage and Development CHGD and ICOMOS Netherlands presents multidisciplinary research that connects water to heritage Through twenty one chapters it explores landscapes cities engineering structures and buildings from around the world It describes how people have actively shaped the course form and function of water for human settlement and the development of civilizations establishing socio economic structures policies and cultures a rich world of narratives laws and practices and an extensive network of infrastructure buildings and urban form The book is organized in five thematic sections that link practices of the past to the design of the present and visions of the future part I discusses drinking water management part II addresses water use in agriculture part III explores water management for land reclamation and defense part IV examines river and coastal planning and part V focuses on port cities and waterfront regeneration Today the many complex systems of the past are necessarily the basis for new systems that both preserve the past and manage water today policy makers and designers can work together to recognize and build on the traditional knowledge and skills that old structure embody This book argues that there is a need for a common agenda and an integrated policy that addresses the preservation transformation and adaptive reuse of historic water related structures Throughout it imagines how such efforts will help us develop sustainable futures for cities landscapes and bodies of water DIY Detroit Kimberley Kinder, 2016-03-15 For ten years James Robertson walked the twenty one mile round trip from his Detroit home to his factory job when his story went viral it brought him an outpouring of attention and support But what of Robertson s Detroit neighbors likewise stuck in a blighted city without services as basic as a bus line What they re left with after decades of disinvestment and decline is DIY urbanism sweeping their own streets maintaining public parks planting community gardens boarding up empty buildings even acting as real estate agents and landlords for abandoned homes DIY Detroit describes a phenomenon that in our times of austerity measures and market based governance has become woefully routine as inhabitants of deteriorating cities domesticate public services in order to get by The voices that animate this book humanize Detroit s troubles from a middle class African American civic activist drawn back by a crisis of conscience to a young Latina stay at home mom who has never left the city and whose husband works in construction to a European woman with a mixed race adopted family and a passion for social reform who introduces a chicken coop goat shed and market garden into the neighborhood These people show firsthand how living with disinvestment means getting organized to manage public works on a neighborhood scale helping friends and family members solve logistical problems and promoting creativity compassion and self direction as an alternative to broken dreams and passive lifestyles Kimberley Kinder reveals how the efforts of these Detroiters and others like them create new urban logics and transform the expectations residents have about their environments At the same time she cautions against romanticizing such acts which are after all short term solutions to a deep and spreading social injustice that demands comprehensive change
