Translating Institutions An Ethnographic Study Of Eu Translation:

Translating Institutions Kaisa Koskinen, 2014-06-03 Translating Institutions outlines a framework for research on translation in institutional settings using the Finnish translation unit at the European Commission as a case study. Because of their foundational multilingualism, the institutions of the European Union could be described as both translating and translated institutions. The European Commission alone employs nearly two thousand translators, and it is translators who draft the vast majority of outgoing EU messages. Translating Institutions sets out to explore the organizational role and professional identity of this group of cultural mediators, a group that has remained relatively invisible despite its size and central institutional role, and to use the analysis of this data to elaborate broader methodological and theoretical issues. Translating Institutions adopts an ethnographic approach to explore the life and work of the translators at the centre of this study. In practice, this entails employing a number of different methods and interrogating various types of data. The three-level research design used covers the study of the institutional framework, the study of translators working in specific institutional settings, and the study of translated documents and their source texts. This is therefore a study of both texts and people in their institutional habitat. Given the methodological focus of the volume, the different methods and data are outlined in independent chapters: the institutional framework of translation, institutional ethnography, the physical location of the unit, observation, translators' own views of their role, focus group discussions, and a sociologically oriented text analysis of a sample document. Translating Institutions constitutes a valuable contribution to the sociology of translation. It opens up new avenues for research and offers a detailed framework for the study of institutional translation.

Translating the European House Stefan Baumgarten,Chantal Gagnon,2016-08-17 This anthology of papers written by Christina Sch ffner brings together a selection of articles on the theme of translation and politics Written from the perspective of translation studies and critical discourse analysis it provides an overview of the textual and ideological factors that determine processes of translation within the arena of international politics The selected articles afford a fascinating insight into the dynamics of intercultural exchange against the backdrop of European politics from the fall of the Berlin Wall to debates on EU enlargement By taking a context sensitive approach to linguistic description this book will be of interest to scholars in various adjacent fields of research such as applied linguistics intercultural communication studies media studies political science and the sociology of globalisation as well as to relevant higher education programmes around the world The discipline of translation studies has made its mark by conceptualising translation as a form of cross cultural communication that transcends asymmetrical relations of power foregrounding issues such as colonial domination cultural hegemony and ideology To date however there has been no compelling evidence of the linguistic implications of transnational political communication and little research has been done to help us to understand how political discourse at the international level presupposes translation Featuring a wealth of examples from political text and talk each article here links contextual features to the linguistic choices of political actors By moving beyond national and cultural boundaries these analyses help the reader to get to grips with the discursive implications of power politics and to open up a new debate for a novel area of studies that might be termed cross cultural political discourse analysis Language and Culture in EU Law Susan Šarčević, 2016-03-09 Written by distinguished legal and linguistic scholars and practitioners from the EU institutions the contributions in this volume provide multidisciplinary perspectives on the vital role of language and culture as key forces shaping the dynamics of EU law The broad spectrum of topics sheds light on major Europeanization processes at work the gradual creation of a neutralized EU legal language with uniform concepts for example in the DCFR and CESL and the emergence of a European legal culture The main focus is on EU multilingual lawmaking with special emphasis on problems of legal translation and term formation in the multilingual and multicultural European context including comparative law aspects and an analysis of the advantages and disadvantages of translating from a lingua franca Of equal importance are issues relating to the multilingual interpretation of EU legislation and case law by the national courts and interpretative techniques of the CJEU as well as the viability of the autonomy of EU legal concepts and the need for the professionalization of court interpreters Union wide in response to Directive 2010/64/EU Offering a good mix of theory and practice this book is intended for scholars practitioners and students with a special interest in the legal linguistic aspects of EU law and their impact on old and new Member States and candidate countries as well The Bloomsbury Companion to Language Industry Studies Erik Angelone, Maureen Ehrensberger-Dow, Gary Massey, 2019-11-14 This volume provides a comprehensive overview of the key issues shaping the language industry including translation interpreting machine translation editing terminology management technology and accessibility By exploring current and future research topics and methods the Companion addresses language industry stakeholders researchers trainers and working professionals who are keen to know more about the dynamics of the language industry Providing systematic coverage of a diverse range of translation and interpreting related topics and featuring an A to Z of key terms The Bloomsbury Companion to Language Industry Studies examines how industry trends and technological advancement can optimize best practices in multilingual communication language industry workspaces and training Research Methodologies in Translation Studies Gabriela Saldanha, Sharon O'Brien, 2014-04-08 As an interdisciplinary area of research translation studies attracts students and scholars with a wide range of backgrounds who then need to face the challenge of accounting for a complex object of enquiry that does not adapt itself well to traditional methods in other fields of investigation This book addresses the needs of such scholars whether they are students doing research at postgraduate level or more experienced researchers who want to familiarize themselves with methods outside their current field of expertise The book promotes a discerning and critical approach to scholarly investigation by providing the reader not only with the know how but also with insights into how new questions can be fruitfully explored through the coherent integration of different methods of research Understanding core principles of reliability validity and ethics is essential for any researcher no matter what methodology they adopt and a whole chapter is therefore devoted to these issues Research Methodologies in Translation Studies is divided into four different chapters according to whether the research focuses on the translation product the process of translation the participants involved or the context in which translation takes place An introductory chapter discusses issues of reliability credibility validity and ethics The impact of our research depends not only on its quality but also on successful dissemination and the final chapter therefore deals with what is also generally the final stage of the research process producing a research report

The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Methodology Federico Zanettin, Christopher Rundle, 2022-03-10 The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Methodology provides a comprehensive overview of methodologies in translation studies including both well established and more recent approaches The Handbook is organised into three sections the first of which covers methodological issues in the two main paradigms to have emerged from within translation studies namely skopos theory and descriptive translation studies The second section covers multidisciplinary perspectives in research methodology and considers their application in translation research The third section deals with practical and pragmatic methodological issues Each chapter provides a summary of relevant research a literature overview critical issues and topics recommendations for best practice and some suggestions for further reading Bringing together over 30 eminent international scholars from a wide range of disciplinary and geographical backgrounds this Handbook is essential reading for all students and scholars involved in translation methodology and research

Research Methods in Legal Translation and Interpreting Łucja Biel, Jan Engberg, Rosario Martín Ruano, Vilelmini Sosoni, 2019-05-09 The field of Legal translation and interpreting has strongly expanded over recent years As it has developed into an independent branch of Translation Studies this book advocates for a substantiated discussion of methods and methodology as well as knowledge about the variety of approaches actually applied in the field It is argued that complex and multifaceted as it is legal translation calls for research that might cross boundaries across research approaches and disciplines in order to shed light on the many facets of this social practice The volume addresses the challenge of methodological consolidation triangulation and refinement The work presents examples of the variety of theoretical approaches which have been developed in the discipline and of the methodological sophistication which is currently being called for In this regard by combining different perspectives they expand our understanding of the roles played by legal translators and interpreters who emerge as linguistic and intercultural mediators dealing with a rich variety of legal texts as knowledge communicators and as builders of specialised knowledge as social agents performing a socially situated activity as decision makers and agents subject to and redefining power relations and as political actors shaping legal cultures and negotiating cultural identities as well as their own professional identity Chapter 2 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license
