Validation Breakthrough Simple Techniques For Communicating With People With Alzheimers Type Dementia:

The Validation Breakthrough Naomi Feil, 1993 Simple techniques for communicating with people with Alzheimer's Type Dementia

The Validation Breakthrough Naomi Feil, Vicki de Klerk-Rubin, 2022 Validation is a successful way of communicating with older adults with Alzheimer's type dementia and responding to their challenging behaviors. The Validation method helps reduce stress, enhance dignity, and increase happiness for both the elder and the caregiver. Since its inception in 1989, Validation has helped thousands of professional and family caregivers improve their relationships with residents and loved ones with dementia by acknowledging older adults' expressed feelings rather than focusing on disorientation and confusion. Professionals learn how to build relationships with residents based on empathy and compassion, understand and deal with challenging behaviors, interpret nonverbal cues to promote better communication, and implement Validation in their own care setting through the experiences shared by Authorized Validation Organizations around the world. The Validation method is easy to learn, and positive results can be seen in both residents and caregivers. Residents express less anger and anxiety, decreasing the need for chemical and physical restraints. Residents communicate more freely and more often. Residents often move better and experience an improved sense of self-worth. Staff members express a greater sense of fulfillment at work and feel better prepared for handling difficult situations. Families visit more often. The Validation Breakthrough is an essential resource for professionals in all settings serving adults who may be confused and disoriented, including assisted living facilities, skilled nursing facilities, hospice, home health care, adult day services, and family care settings.

Therapeutic Skills for Mental Health Nurses Nicola Evans, Ben Hannigan, 2016-07-16 Most specialist mental health care is provided by nurses who use face-to-face helping skills with a wide range of people in a variety of contexts. This book puts therapeutic skills at the heart of the nurse's role with one central aim: to equip you with knowledge to use in your practice, thus improving your ability to deliver care. This book will enable you to strengthen your core therapeutic skills and broaden your knowledge to include other practical therapeutic approaches. Collates in one place information on a range of therapeutic approaches from person-centred counselling, motivational interviewing, and solution-focused approaches through to day-to-day skills of challenging unhelpful thoughts, de-escalating difficult situations, working with families, and problem-solving. Demonstrates application of theory to practice through a variety of practical examples. Features reader activities to facilitate personal growth and learning. Includes a chapter exploring clinical supervision and how this makes practice more effective. Each chapter is grounded in authentic clinical experiences and focuses on equipping the reader to develop confidence in their client-facing skills. This text is an essential purchase for all mental health nurse students as well as qualified nurses. Whilst the essential therapeutic component of mental health nursing is the nurse themselves, it is also essential that they have knowledge and competencies to offer the client. This valuable book offers the reader an introduction to a wide range of approaches that are considered helpful, evidence-based, and effective. Modern mental health nursing
