Luncheon The midday meal of the household is too Often an indifferent affair or consists of ingredients which upset the system instead of benefiting it This should not be Quite as much care should be exercised in the table appointments at lunch as at any other meal If servants are allowed to Shirk their duties at one time is it not human to expect them to be careless Whenever they feel so disposed Should a child be expected to have pretty table manners at a particular meal when he is allowed to run riot at others P Heavy soups Should not appear at the luncheon table for it is too much to ask of a servant to make soup twice a day Clam broth however is easily made and served in cups is always acceptable About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
