Themes In Economic Anthropology Social Science Paperbacks:

When History Accelerates C. M. Hann, 2016-10-06 Rapid and complex social change is of urgent concern to all human societies but how can researchers do justice both to the objective complexities of causal relations and to subjective experiences of different types of change The present volume focuses upon cases of accelerating change including Russia Iran South Africa and Turkey and examines some of the theoretical issues involved in conceptualizing social change and transformation and the methods for their study The fifteen essays in this collection will be of interest to all students of history and the social sciences and especially to students of social anthropology sociology and development studies Studies in Economic Anthropology George Dalton, 1971 The Routledge Handbook of Critical Finance Studies Christian Borch, Robert Wosnitzer, 2020-09-15 There has been an increasing interest in financial markets across sociology history anthropology cultural studies and related disciplines over the past decades with particular intensity since the 2007 2008 crisis which prompted new analyses of the workings of financial markets and how scandals of Wall Street might have huge societal ramifications The sociologically inclined landscape of finance studies is characterized by different more or less well established homogeneous camps with more micro empirical social studies of finance approaches on the one end of the spectrum and more theoretical often neo Marxist approaches on the other Yet alternative approaches are also gaining traction including work that emphasizes the cultural homologies and interconnections with finance as well as work that more broadly is both empirically rigorous and theoretically ambitious Importantly across these various approaches to finance a growing body of literature is taking shape which engages finance in a critical manner The term critical finance studies nonetheless remains largely unfocused and undefined Against this backdrop the key rationales of The Routledge Handbook of Critical Finance Studies are firstly to provide a coherent notion of this emergent field and secondly to demonstrate its analytical usefulness across a wide range of central aspects of contemporary finance As such the volume will offer a comprehensive guide to students and academics on the field of Finance and Critical Finance Studies Heterodox Economics Accounting and related Management disciplines Chapter 14 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license Saili Matagi Leulu Felise Va'a, 2001 An exploration of the practice of fa'a Samoa among migrants of the nature of the politics of tradition within their communities and of the search for opportunities in new environments Topics on Economics and Social Science Barrington K. Brown, 2009-05-11 This manuscript consists of 16 research papers that were completed between the years 1982 and 2005 the analyses of which range from the purely theoretical to the empirical and extending to the more ideological and philosophical In any case the emphasis of each paper is upon creativity with inventiveness and innovation being the essential elements Part two of this manuscript consists of a purely theoretical paper This paper presents a fresh approach to macroeconomic theory and policy Part Three consisting of empirically oriented projects employs unique variable and model specifications in order to verify existing theories in economics The first three papers in this part verifies the theories of bilateral monopoly and the employment effects of minimum wage legislation under conditions of competition monopsony and monopoly The next paper examines Caribbean economic integration and verifies the principle of comparative advantage The fifth paper in this part examines the relationship between market structure and rates of return The sixth paper in this part deals with the gaming industry The fourth part of this manuscript deals with the more ideological and philosophical aspects of economics and social science The first two papers in this part tend to emphasize laissez faire capitalism The third and last paper of this part begins to break with this tendency and thus serves as somewhat of an introduction to the fifth part of this manuscript The fifth part of this manuscript is much more interdisciplinary in nature compared to the earlier parts and deals with class conflict and extends to conflict in general The first paper presents the primary class conflict model and five additional papers follow The fifth paper while an empirical undertaking is included here because it is consistent with the general topic of this part of the manuscript

Cognition in Practice Jean Lave, 1988-07-29 Most previous research on human cognition has focused on problem solving and has confined its investigations to the laboratory As a result it has been difficult to account for complex mental processes and their place in culture and history In this startling indeed disco in forting study Jean Lave moves the analysis of one particular form of cognitive activity arithmetic problem solving out of the laboratory into the domain of everyday life In so doing she shows how mathematics in the real world like all thinking is shaped by the dynamic encounter between the culturally endowed mind and its total context a subtle interaction that shapes 1 Both tile human subject and the world within which it acts The study is focused on mundane daily activities such as grocery shopping for best buys in the supermarket dieting and so on Innovative in its method fascinating in its findings the research is above all significant in its theoretical contributions Have offers a cogent critique of conventional cognitive theory turning for an alternative to recent social theory and weaving a compelling synthesis from elements of culture theory theories of practice and Marxist discourse The result is a new way of understanding human thought processes a vision of cognition as the dialectic between persons acting and the settings in which their activity is constituted The book will appeal to anthropologists for its novel theory of the relation of cognition to culture and context to cognitive scientists and educational theorists and to the plain folks who form its subject and who will recognize themselves in it a rare accomplishment in the modern social sciences

Conceptualizing Iranian Anthropology Shahnaz R. Nadjmabadi, 2010-01-01 During recent years attempts have been made to move beyond the Eurocentric perspective that characterized the social sciences especially anthropology for over 150 years A debate on the anthropology of anthropology was needed one that would consider other forms of knowledge modalities of writing and political and intellectual practices This volume undertakes that challenge it is the result of discussions held at the first organized encounter between Iranian American and European anthropologists since the Iranian Revolution of 1979 It is considered an important first step in overcoming the dichotomy between peripheral anthropologies versus central anthropologies The contributors examine from a critical perspective the historical cultural and political field in which anthropological research emerged in Iran at the beginning of the twentieth century and in which it continues to develop today Someone to Teach Them John T. Saywell, 2008-01-01 From the early 1960s to the 1970s the province of Ontario witnessed an explosion in university enrolment So dramatic was the increase that there were neither the institutions nor the faculty in place to meet the demand In response a dozen new universities from Trent in the southeast to Lakehead in the northwest were established and faculty had to be recruited wherever they could be found It was the events and developments of this decade many argue that created the university system that exists in Ontario today Someone to Teach Them is an insider's account of this period as told by historian John T Saywell As Dean of Arts at York University from 1963 to 1973 Saywell witnessed the expansion of the university from 500 students in 1963 to 7000 by 1970 and the many changes it took to accommodate such a change York managed to recruit the necessary faculty he writes but the large number of American instructors led to a radical attack on the so called Americanization of the universities Saywell also elucidates the adverse effect that the reduction of government funding and enrolment had on the administration of the university in the 1970s Featuring many of the elements of personal memoir this is also a thoroughly researched account of a critical decade for the history of education in Ontario Having People, Having Heart China Scherz, 2022-12-22 This study of charity in Uganda challenges current international development norms and standards as refusals to redistribute wealth Washington Post Believing that charity inadvertently legitimates social inequality and fosters dependence many international development organizations have increasingly sought to replace material aid with efforts to build self reliance and local institutions But in some cultures like those in rural Uganda where Having People Having Heart takes place people see this shift not as an effort toward empowerment but as a suspect refusal to redistribute wealth Exploring this conflict China Scherz balances the negative assessments of charity that have led to this shift with the viewpoints of those who actually receive aid Through detailed studies of two different orphan support organizations in Uganda Scherz shows how many Ugandans view material forms of Catholic charity as deeply intertwined with their own ethics of care and exchange With a detailed examination of this overlooked relationship in hand she reassesses the generally assumed paradox of material aid as both promising independence and preventing it The result is a sophisticated demonstration of the powerful role that anthropological concepts of exchange value personhood and religion play in the politics of international aid and development At once ethnographically complex and exceptionally well argued Scherz offers the kind of analysis of the politics and morality of aid in the contemporary world that reminds us why anthropology remains a crucial discipline going forward Joel Robbins

University of Cambridge A radical revaluation of the term dependence Books Culture The Social Life of Money Nigel Dodd, 2016-02-09 A reevaluation of what money is and what it might be Questions about the nature of money have gained a new urgency in the aftermath of the global financial crisis Even as many people have less of it there are more forms and systems of money from local currencies and social lending to mobile money and Bitcoin Yet our understanding of what money is and what it might be hasn't kept pace In The Social Life of Money Nigel Dodd one of today's leading sociologists of money reformulates the theory of the subject for a postcrisis world in which new kinds of money are proliferating What counts as legitimate action by central banks that issue currency and set policy What underpins the right of nongovernmental actors to create new currencies And how might new forms of money surpass or subvert government sanctioned currencies To answer such questions The Social Life of Money takes a fresh and wide ranging look at modern theories of money One of the book's central concerns is how money can be wrested from the domination and mismanagement of banks and governments and restored to its fundamental position as the claim upon society described by Georg Simmel But rather than advancing yet another critique of the state based monetary system The Social Life of Money draws out the utopian aspects of money and the ways in which its transformation could in turn transform society politics and economics The book also identifies the contributions of thinkers who have not previously been thought of as monetary theorists including Nietzsche Benjamin Bataille Deleuze and Guattari Baudrillard Derrida and Hardt and Negri The result provides new ways of thinking about money that seek not only to understand it but to change it *Anthropological and historical sciences.
