Making Time for Making Music Amy Nathan, 2018 Are you a former music maker who yearns to return to music but aren't sure where to begin Or are you a person who never played music as a child but you are now curious about trying You're not alone Many adults who used to play an instrument haven't touched it in years because either they can't find the time to practice are afraid their skills are too rusty or are unsure of what kind of group they could join Others are afraid to sing or start playing an instrument because they received negative feedback from childhood experiences Performing practicing and composing music may seem like unattainable goals with insurmountable obstacles for busy adults with non musical careers Making Time for Making Music can help adults find ways to make music part of their lives The first book of its kind it is filled with real life success stories from more than 350 adults who manage to fit music making into their jam packed schedules They polished rusty skills found musical groups to join and are having a great time Their testimonies prove that you are never too old to learn to make music and that there are numerous musical paths to explore Featuring advice from dozens of music educators health care professionals and music researchers who point out that making music can even be good for your health as well as an extensive resource list of
