Working With Women Offenders In The Community:

Working with Women Offenders in the Community Rosemary Sheehan, Gill McIvor, Chris Trotter, 2010-12-21

Contributions to this book challenge policy makers and corrections systems to concentrate on community provision for women offenders and resist popular calls for more punitive responses to all offenders women included Contributors come from a wide range of countries including Australia Canada UK and USA They argue that the criminogenic lens applied to women s offending must be gender responsive if systems are to be successful at addressing the disadvantage and risk associated with offending behaviour Working with Women Offenders in the Community Rosemary Sheehan, Gill McIvor, Chris Trotter, 2010-12-21 Though many more women offenders are supervised in the community than in custody much less is known about their needs and effective approaches to their supervision support and treatment Whilst there has been recent attention paid to responding to the needs of women in prison negligible attention has been paid to women exiting prison or on community based orders and what is needed to work with them to reduce re offending or entry into prison Contributions to this book challenge policy makers and corrections systems to concentrate more on community provision for women offenders and resist popular calls for more punitive responses to all offenders women included Contributors come from a wide range of countries including Australia Canada UK and USA They argue that the criminogenic lens applied to women s offending must be gender responsive if systems are to be successful at addressing the disadvantage and risk associated with offending behaviour Working With Women Offenders in the Community builds on ideas presented in the editors previous book What Works With Women Offenders 2007 extending the focus particularly on women offenders in the community rather than in prison This book concentrates on women who have committed criminal offences and who may have been placed on probation or other community based court orders or who have been released from prison on parole It discusses the work done by professional workers including probation officers community corrections officers and specialist case managers in areas such as drug treatment housing mental health or employment programmes This book will be of interest to professional probation officers case managers drug treatment workers and others who work with women offenders It will also be essential reading for students of criminology social work psychology sociology and other disciplines who have an interest in women offenders Women Who Offend Gill McIvor, 2004-01-12 Presenting research that will underpin effective practice with women who offend this unique and thought provoking text aims to help professionals meet the needs of this group as well as providing a theoretical resource for policy makers and academics Working with Female Offenders Katherine van Wormer, 2010-09-29 Praise for Working with Female Offenders Encyclopedic in scope and full of very relevant work drawn from the fields of biology psychology criminology and corrections this book is a must read for those working with girl and women offenders Meda Chesney Lind Professor Women s Studies University of Hawaii at Manoa In this timely and thoughtful book van Wormer provides a gender sensitive lens through which the reader can

Women offenders Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Justice Committee, 2013-07-15 Government plans to introduce payment by results in probation services need to be redesigned in respect of women offenders who are often classified as presenting a lower risk of reoffending so that they receive the intensive tailored support they need The Government's strategic priorities for women offenders lack substance and in particular must take a broader approach to supporting women at risk of reoffending and addressing the inter generational nature of crime The Committee welcomes the Government's extension of through the gate statutory support to prisoners sentenced to less than 12 months likely to benefit many women offenders However potential providers of rehabilitative services need to recognise that levels of risk posed by women may not reflect the level of support such women require Although progress has been made since the Corston recommendations a number of concerns remain the women's prison population has not fallen sufficiently fast over half of women offenders continue to receive ineffective short custodial sentences mental health and substance misuse treatment which could reduce use of custody remains unavailable to Courts in sufficient volume Maintaining a network of women s centres and using residential alternatives to custody are likely to be more effective and cheaper in the long run than short custodial sentences The Committee does not recommend substantive changes to the overall sentencing framework but argues instead for more emphasis to be placed on ensuring courts are provided with robust alternatives to custody specifically appropriate to women Working with Sex Offenders in Prisons and Through Release to the Community Alec P. Spencer,1999 Victims pornography case study staff training behaviour programme rape pedophile Working with Sex Offenders in Prisons and through Release to the Community Alec Spencer,1999-06-01 This book looks at a wide range of issues and problems relating to the management of sexual offenders in prisons and their reintegration into the community Issues involved in the setting up of programmes the creation of the right environment and the support and training of staff are universally applicable Therapeutic Community for Women Prisoners Elaine Player,Elaine Genders,2025-09-02 Based upon an extensive empirical study of a democratic therapeutic community for women serving long and medium sentences this book explores the opportunities it provided for restorative rehabilitation In so doing it identifies some of the interconnected ways in which these ambitions are undermined by pervasive yet often tacit assumptions that underly penal policies and practices Drawing on a wealth of data gathered from a study spanning a period of eighteen years at the only democratic therapeutic community for women prisoners in the UK the book highlights how feminist criminology has revealed an invidious history of women s treatment in prison demonstrating how reformist and rehabilitative interventions have reproduced and exacerbated existing states of inequality and oppression Consequently the question explored in this book is whether a proportionate sentence that imposes a loss of liberty is inevitably destined to this fate or whether it can be constructed in ways that are progressive and transformative By identifying and understanding some of the interconnected ways in which progressive efforts have typically been undermined it opens a debate about the insinuation of certain often unspoken assumptions that underly penal policies and practices and the need for their deconstruction It opens an axiomatic debate about how women imprisoned for serious offences might have that loss of liberty interpreted to facilitate a restorative reparative and reintegrative process of rehabilitation informed by principles of social justice This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of criminology feminist studies public policy and human rights It will also be of value to policymakers and practitioners in women s prisons and psychologists and psychiatrists interested in therapeutic communities Women and Work United States. Employment and Training Administration,1977 The Wiley Handbook on What Works with Girls and Women in Conflict with the Law Shelley L. Brown,Loraine Gelsthorpe,2022-03-14 The Wiley Handbook on What Works with Girls and Women in Conflict with the Law The most practical discussion of the rehabilitation of girls and women in conflict with the law in the correctional arena What Works with Girls and Women in Conflict with the Law is the leading examination of evidence based practice in the field of gender responsive corrections Adopting an international and intersectional approach the distinguished authors seek to collect the best available data and thinking on what works with girls and women and apply it to the real world problems facing correctional systems today As part of its contextual and rich approach to the subject What Works with girls and women in conflict with the law covers a broad variety of topics ranging from theories of female involvement in crime security classification and risk assessment evidence based treatment and supervision approaches special populations such as Indigenous women to legal policy developments in the field of gender responsive corrections Perfect for students and practitioners in the field of psychology criminology social work criminal justice and corrections this is the only reference of its kind to focus on the practical applications of the latest theory
