Goldberg, 2013-09-05 The tenth volume in the Progress in Self Psychology series begins with four timely assessments of the selfobject concept followed by a section of clinical papers that span the topics of homosexuality alter ego countertransference hypnosis trauma dream theory and intersubjective approaches to conjoint therapy Section III A Dialogue of Self Psychology offers Merton Gill's astute appreciation of Heinz Kohut's Self Psychology followed by commentaries by Leider and Stolorow and Gill's reply. The concluding section offers Stolorow and Atwood's The Myth of the Isolated Mind followed by discussions by Gehrie and the Shanes. A forum for the kind of spirited productive exchanges that have long found a home within the self psychological community. A Decade of Progress builds on the past in responding to the theoretical and clinical challenges of the present. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 12 Arnold I. Goldberg, 2013-06-17. Volume 12 of the Progress in Self Psychology series begins with reassessments of frustration and responsiveness optimal and otherwise by MacIsaac Bacal and Thomson the Shanes and Doctors. The philosophical dimension of self psychology is addressed by Riker who looks at Kohut's bipolar theory of the self and Kriegman who examines the subjectivism/objectivism dialectic in self psychology from the standpoint of evolutionary biology. Clinical studies focus on self and mutual regulation in relation to therapeutic action, countertransference and the curative process and the consequences of the negative selfobject in early character formation. A separate section of child studies includes a case study exemplifying a self psychological approach to child therapy and an examination of pathological adaptation to childhood parent loss. With a concluding section of richly varied studies in applied self psychology. Basic Ideas Reconsidered promises to be basic reading for all students of contemporary self psychology.

Self Psychology and Diagnostic Assessment Marshall L. Silverstein, 1999-01-01. The self psychology of Heinz Kohut has been an important force in contemporary psychoanalytic thought and its ramifications for therapy have been extensively explored. Now Marshall Silverstein offers the first analysis of the application of self psychology to projective diagnostic assessment. Differentiating the self psychological approach from an ego psychological interpretation of classical drive theory, he clearly outlines the principal contributions of Kohut including the concepts of selfobject functions, empathy, transmuting internalization and compensatory structure. Providing numerous clinical examples, he shows how the major selfobject functions of mirroring, idealization and twinship can be identified on projective tests. Silverstein then demonstrates how conventional assessment approaches to grandiosity, self-esteem and idealization can be reconceptualized within the framework of self psychology and he also contrasts ego psychological interpretations with self psychological interpretations. This book makes a strong case for the importance of the clinical identification of self states. It will help practitioners understand their patients' varied attempts to repair an injury to the self to restore self-esteem, compensatory structure and the clinical consequences of self disorders including disintegration products such as narcissistic rage and affect states characterized by empty depression, chronic boredom and lack of zest. Progress in Self Psychology, V. 16 Arnold I.

Goldberg, 2013-06-17. Volume 16 of Progress in Self Psychology. How Responsive Should We Be? illuminates the continuing tension between Kohut's emphasis on the patient's subjective experience and the post-Kohutian intersubjectivists' concern with the therapist's own subjectivity by focusing on issues of therapeutic posture and degree of therapist activity. Teicholz provides an integrative context for examining this tension by discussing affect as the common denominator underlying the analyst's empathy, subjectivity and authenticity. Responses to the tension encompass the stance of intersubjective contextualism, advocacy of active responsiveness and emphasis on the thoroughgoing bidirectionality of the analytic endeavor. Balancing these perspectives are a reprise on Kohut's concept of prolonged empathic immersion and a recasting of the issue of closeness and distance in the analytic relationship in terms of analysis of the tie to the negative selfobject. Additional clinical contributions examine severe bulimia and suicidal rage as attempts at self-state regulation and address the self-reparative functions that inhere in the act of dreaming. Like previous volumes in the series, volume 16 demonstrates the applicability of self psychology to nonanalytic treatment modalities and clinical populations. Here self psychology is brought to bear on psychotherapy with placed children, on work with adults with nonverbal learning disabilities and on brief therapy. Rector's examination of twinship and religious experience, Hagman's elucidation of the creative process and Siegel and Topel's experiment with supervision via the internet exemplify the ever-expanding explanatory range of self psychological insights.

Religious Experience and Self-Psychology Jung Eun Jang, 2016-11-09. This book explores the 1907 Korean Revival Movement from a self psychological perspective. The examination of the psychological processes in the movement based on Heinz Kohut's self psychology can shed light on religious experiences as selfobject experiences by identifying the sense of defeatedness and helplessness that Korean people experienced under Japanese occupation as what Kohut calls self fragmentation of the Korean group self and explaining its therapeutic functions which facilitate potential for the narcissistic nourishment of the fragmented group self leading to renewed self-esteem, transformation and empowerment of the Korean people. Korean people in the early 1900s experienced abuses and oppression by corrupt officials and exploitation by Japanese government. Through religious experiences which emphasized the individual repentance, the experience of God through the spirit, emphasis on prayer and eschatological faith, the Korean Revival Movement in 1907 enabled its followers to experience mirroring and idealizing selfobjects which function as a role of transforming the lower shape of narcissism into the higher one.

Contributions of Self Psychology to Group Psychotherapy Walter N. Stone, 2018-03-26. Stone's central interests include the development of the self, empathy, narcissism, shame, envy, rage and the group self. He is concerned with several aspects of clinical technique and is especially sensitive to our co-creation of so-called difficult patients. His understanding of dreams as both personal and group products which manifest visual narratives will be of particular interest to students of the social and collective unconscious. Stone's work with narcissistic and borderline patients developed in parallel with his work with the chronically mentally ill who are often institutionalised. He demonstrates that group therapy for such patients is not only a matter of containment and holding in the service of administrative control but also involves interpretative work based on an understanding of the primary need for a good enough self object.
