Decolonizing Media Education Through Body and Performance Alexis Romero Walker, 2025-12-31 This book explores the ways in which educators in media programs at colleges and universities can work toward decolonizing the curriculum and implementing necessary practices of media literacy to help students become more responsible media practitioners Taking an autoethnographic approach and reflecting on their experiences as a student and educator with an intersectional identity the author proposes that for media education to instill positive change in the media industry there must be a more direct objective of decolonizing media education Looking specifically at how media education programs lack an understanding of how to make their courses more equitable they propose an ambitious start to decolonize media education by dismantling current classroom norms and rebuilding from the perspective of performance as it is connected to the bodies of those in the classroom and the field we can build a critical media literacy framework to make education equitable This insightful book will support media educators in higher education as well as k 12 media educators instructional designers and media researchers
