M. Prins,Thomas H. Ollendick,2015-07-07 The study of moderation and mediation of youth treatment outcomes has been recognized as enormously beneficial in recent years However these benefits have never been fully documented or understood by researchers clinicians and students in training After nearly 50 years of youth treatment outcome research identifying moderators and mediators is the natural next step shifting focus to mechanisms responsible for improved outcomes identifying youth who will benefit from certain treatments or who are in need of alternative treatments and recognizing the challenges associated with the study of moderators and mediators and their routine use in clinical practice Moderators and Mediators of Youth Treatment Outcomes examines conceptual and methodological challenges related to the study of moderation and mediation and illustrates potential treatment moderators and mediators for specific disorders The volume also considers empirical evidence for treatment moderators and mediators of specific disorders and illustrates how theoretical and empirical knowledge regarding moderators and mediators can be harnessed and disseminated to clinical practice This book will be invaluable to researchers conducting treatment outcome studies both efficacy and effectiveness clinicians interested in evidence based work and in understanding for whom and why certain treatments work and students of clinical child and adolescent psychology and psychiatry The Psychological Foundations of Management Henry Clayton Metcalf,1927 Books in Series ,1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series Authors and Titles Getting College Course Credits by Examination to Save $$$ Gene R. Hawes,1979 Riding the Academic Freedom Train Jeanett Castellanos,Joseph L. White,Veronica Franco,2023-07-03 Mentoring demonstrably increases the retention of undergraduate and graduate students and is moreover invaluable in shaping and nurturing academic careers With the increasing diversification of the student body and of faculty ranks there s a clear need for culturally responsive mentoring across these dimensions Recognizing the low priority that academia has generally given to extending the practice of mentoring let alone providing mentoring for Black indigenous and people of color BIPOC and first generation students this book offers a proven and holistic model of mentoring practice developed in the field of psychology that not only helps mentees navigate their studies and the academy but provides them with an understanding of the systemic and racist barriers they will encounter validates their cultural roots and contributions and attends to their personal development Further recognizing the demands that mentoring places on already busy faculty the model addresses ways of distributing the work inviting White and BIPOC faculty to participate developing mentees capacities to mentor those that follow them building a network of mentoring across generations and adopting group mentoring Intentionally planned and implemented the model becomes self perpetuating building an intergenerational cadre of mentors who can meet the growing and continuing needs of the BIPOC community Opening with a review of the salient research on effective mentoring and chapters that offer minority students views on what has worked for them as well as reflections by faculty mentors the core of the book describes the Freedom Train model developed by the godfather of Black psychology Dr Joseph White setting out the principles and processes that inform the Multiracial Multiethnic Multicultural M3 Mentoring Model that evolved from it and offers an example of group mentoring While addressed principally to faculty interested in undertaking mentoring and supporting minoritized students and faculty the book also addresses Deans and Chairs and how they can create Freedom Train communities and networks by changing the cultural climate of their institutions providing support and modifying faculty evaluations and rewards that will in turn contribute to student retention as well as creative and productive scholarship and research This is a timely and inspiring book for anyone in the academy concerned with the success of BIPOC students and invigorating their department s or school s scholarship American Book Publishing Record ,2001 Bryn Mawr College Calendar Bryn Mawr College,1926 Comprehensive Clinical Psychology A.S.
