What Is A Metaphor About Someone Who Is Not Well Behaved:

Metaphor in Educational Discourse Lynne Cameron, 2003-03-13 Metaphor in Educational Discourse is a superb piece of applied linguistics research that integrates Vygotsky's theory of concepts with current work on metaphor into a coherent framework for investigating how teachers and learners negotiate figurative language in order to promote development in the classroom setting. In what is likely to become the standard for future studies in this area, Lynne Cameron meticulously demonstrates the central role of linguistic metaphors in classroom learning designed to lead learners to a deeper understanding of complex mathematical and scientific concepts. James P. Lantolf, Professor of Applied Linguistics, The Pennsylvania State University. This book reports research into metaphor in use with school students. The setting for the research is a UK school and the participants are around ten years old with their first language well established but still developing concepts and understandings. Close examination of a corpus of classroom spoken discourse reveals how metaphor is employed by their teachers not just in explaining ideas but in managing and mediating the activity of the classroom and the learning of the students. Particular issues discussed include the problems of identifying metaphors in spoken discourse, the conventionalism of metaphors in the discourse of socio-cultural groups, and how a socio-cultural approach can account for systematicity in metaphor use.

A Dog Pissing at the Edge of a Path Gregory Forth,2019-12-12 The Nage people of the eastern Indonesian island of Flores refer to someone who begins something but is regularly distracted by other matters as a dog pissing at the edge of a path In this first comprehensive study of animal metaphors in a non Western society Gregory Forth focuses on how the Nage understand metaphor and use their knowledge of animals to shape specific expressions Based on extensive field research A Dog Pissing at the Edge of a Path explores the meaning and use of over 560 animal metaphors employed by the Nage Investigating how closely their indigenous concept of pata p le corresponds to the Greek derived English concept of metaphor Forth demonstrates that the Nage people understand these figures of speech in the same way as Westerners namely as conventional ways of speaking about people and objects not expressions of an essential identity between their animal vehicles and human referents Theoretically engaging with anthropology's recent ontological turn the book considers whether metaphors reveal significant differences in conceptions of human animal relations the human animal contrast and human understanding of other humans in different parts of the world An incredible catalogue of animal based linguistic art and Nage verbal conventions A Dog Pissing at the Edge of a Path illuminates essential features of metaphorical thought everywhere

All the Year Round Charles Dickens,1861 Competition and Cooperation James Alt,Margaret Levi,Elinor Ostrom,1999-10-29 What can the disciplines of political science and economics learn from one another Political scientists have recently begun to adapt economic theories of exchange trade and competition to the study of legislatures parties and voting At the same time some of the most innovative and influential thinkers in economics have crossed the boundaries of their discipline to explore the classic questions of political science Competition and Cooperation features six of these path breaking scholars all winners of the Nobel Prize for Economics in a series of conversations with more than a dozen distinguished political scientists The discussions analyze adapt and extend the Nobelists seminal work showing how it has carried over into political science and paved the way for fruitful cooperation between the two disciplines The exchanges span all of the major conceptual legacies of the Nobel laureates Arrow's formalization of the problems of collective decisions Buchanan's work on constitutions and his critique of majority rule Becker's theory of competition among interest groups North's focus on insecure property rights and transaction costs Simon's concern with the limits to rationality and Selten's experimental work on strategic thinking and behavior As befits any genuine dialogue the traffic of ideas and experiences runs both ways The Nobel economists have had a profound impact upon political science but in addressing political questions they have also had to rethink many settled assumptions of economics. The standard image of economic man as a hyper rational self interested creature acting by and for himself bears only a passing resemblance to man as a political animal. Several of the Nobelists featured in this volume have turned instead to the insights of cognitive science and institutional analysis to provide a more recognizable portrait of political life. The reconsideration of rationality and the role of institutions in economics as in politics raises the possibility of a shared approach to individual choice and institutional behavior that gives glimmers of a new unity in the social sciences. Competition and Cooperation demonstrates that the most important work in both economics and political science reflects a marriage of the two disciplines.

HIV Exceptionalism Adia Benton, 2015-02-15 WINNER 2017 RACHEL CARSON PRIZE SOCIETY FOR THE SOCIAL STUDIES OF SCIENCE. In 2002 Sierra Leone emerged from a decade long civil war. Seeking international attention and development aid its government faced a dilemma. Though devastated by conflict Sierra Leone had a low prevalence of HIV. However like most African countries it stood to benefit from a large influx of foreign funds specifically targeted at HIV AIDS prevention and care. What Adia Benton chronicles in this ethnographically rich and often moving book is how one war ravaged nation reoriented itself as a country suffering from HIV at the expense of other more pressing health concerns. During her fieldwork in the capital Freetown a city of one million people at least thirty NGOs administered internationally funded programs that included HIV AIDS prevention and care. Benton probes why HIV exceptionalism the idea that HIV is an exceptional disease requiring an exceptional response continues to guide approaches to the epidemic worldwide and especially in Africa even in low prevalence settings. In the fourth decade since the emergence of HIV AIDS many today are questioning whether the effort and money spent on this health crisis has in fact helped or exacerbated the problem. HIV Exceptionalism does this and more asking what are the unanticipated consequences that HIV AIDS development programs engender.

Mathematical Metaphors, Memories, and Mindsets Carmen M. Latterell, Janelle L. Wilson, 2020-04-10. United States students continue to have difficulties with the subject of mathematics. Sometimes it is believed that students aren't smart enough to master mathematics or that mathematics is just too difficult for all but the chosen few. This book offers an alternative explanation. Students' difficulties in mathematics can best be understood and explained socially. That is, Learning Theories, Agents of Socialization and more generally cultural and social milieu are relevant in trying to understand individuals' ideas about mathematics. The book begins by providing an overview of the current status in mathematics education. Popular cultural portrayals of mathematics and mathematicians are examined. The book then delves deeper into how students perceive mathematics and mathematicians by examining how students view mathematicians, how students define mathematics and what themes emerge from students' mathematical autobiographies and their metaphors. The book describes a semantic differential in an effort to ascertain the meanings of math that people hold and shows the different patterns of responses among various groups of people. Finally the book delves into mathematical mindsets, a current approach to understanding mathematical identities as well as success and failure in mathematics Researching Metaphors Michele Prandi, Micaela Rossi, 2022-09-07 This collection advocates for a more holistic picture of metaphor extending the field's focus beyond the cognitive paradigm and conventional metaphorical concepts to illustrate the possibilities afforded by the study of living metaphors. The volume brings together a diverse range of researchers in the discipline towards critically examining the presuppositions of the cognitive approach. The book shines a light on living metaphors' creative interpretations of conflictual meaning specific to a text or communicative act with their own unique functions to throw into relief long held tenets in existing metaphor research. Chapters reflect on the notion that creative metaphors spring from independent sources not merely from metaphorical concepts and the subsequent implications for our understanding of the relationship between linguistic forms and conceptual structures and the role of creative metaphors in organizing thought and action. Taken together the book offers a complementary vision of languages and figures which integrates disparate lines of study within the cognitive paradigm with alternative perspectives for a more comprehensive portrait of metaphors. This book will be of interest to students and scholars interested in the study of metaphor including such disciplines as theoretical linguistics, cognitive linguistics, semantics, literary studies and philosophy of language Punch Mark Lemon, Henry Mayhew, Tom Taylor, Shirley Brooks, Francis Cowley Burnand, Owen Seaman, 1913

The Nation and Athenæum, 1916 Manipulation Robert Noggle, 2025-02-24 Gaslighting, flattery, misdirection, nagging, emotional blackmail, charm offensives playing on emotions. These are all examples of ordinary manipulation. Such manipulation is common in everyday life which is unfortunate since manipulation seems like a bad thing. Manipulation: Its Nature, Mechanisms and Moral Status answers three questions about manipulation: what is it, how does it work, and why is it bad. Addressing the first question requires us to find something that all forms of manipulation have in common but which is not shared by other forms of influence. Robert Noggle argues that the common feature of all forms of ordinary manipulation is that they are mistake inducing. This idea is the basis for the Mistake Account of manipulation which defines manipulation as a kind of influence that operates by introducing a mistake into the mental states or processes of the person being influenced. To explain how manipulation works, this book explores the psychological levers that manipulators use to get us to make the mistakes that will get us to do what they want. These include various cognitive and decision making biases, our tendency to choose the lesser good over the greater good when the lesser good is immediately available, and the simple fact that human reason is an imperfect thing. To explain why manipulation seems like a bad thing, Noggle first argues that while manipulation is always presumptively immoral, it can be justified in extreme situations. He then shows that manipulation's presumptive immorality derives from the fact that it involves getting someone to make a mistake and making a mistake is a bad thing. However, the most morally egregious instances of manipulation also have bad effects on well-being and autonomy. This book concludes by applying the Mistake Account to various influences including priming, conditioning, nudges, advertising, sales, and online influences.
