Media and Water Joanne Garde-Hansen, 2021-01-14 As flooding drought and water scarcity become more pronounced due to climate change so the way in which these events are presented in the media assumes greater significance. In particular, the media plays an important role in shaping the public perception and understanding of water issues and debates around extreme weather events. More generally, Joanne Garde Hansen's book offers a sustained and comprehensive exploration of media representations of water. Drawing on a wide range of media including newspapers, digital photography, radio, television, and video, as well as empirical research on media and memory, she examines how drought, flooding, and water management have been portrayed in the media both historically and in the contemporary world. The use of the media by water institutions to manage public perceptions and the use of digital media by the public to engage with water companies is also included. A particular feature of the book is an examination of water and gender in developed nations. One of the first books to look at media representations of water, this pioneering work provides valuable insights for both scholarly and professional water research.

Arab Water Security Hussein A. Amery, 2015-07-02 This book explores the national security implications of the Arab Gulf states' reliance on desalination plants and their related infrastructure. It provides the first systematic and comprehensive discussion of current and future threats to the supply of freshwater from a desalination plant, including actual and virtual attacks by terrorists, mechanical failure, contamination, sabotage by aggrieved workers, and attacks relating to regional conflicts, as well as their vulnerability to natural disasters. It also provides a detailed analysis of the effects of a potential disruption to the water supply and proposes possible measures, both political and technological, that can be used to increase resilience to these threats. Arab Water Security is a valuable reference for researchers and graduate students, as well as for policy makers and professionals interested in water security, natural resources, and environmental terrorism.
