Woven Threads Patterned Textiles Of The Aegean Bronze Age:

Woven Threads Maria C. Shaw, 2015-12-01 Investigates evidence for patterned textiles woven with elaborate designs that were produced by two early Mediterranean civilisations the Minoans of Crete and the Mycenaeans of mainland Greece

Woven Threads Maria C. Shaw, Anne P. Chapin, 2022-02-03 Woven textiles are produced by nearly all human societies This volume investigates evidence for patterned textiles that is textiles woven with elaborate designs that were produced by two early Mediterranean civilisations the Minoans of Crete and the Mycenaeans of mainland Greece that prospered during the Aegean Bronze Age c 3000 1200 BC contemporary with pharaonic Egypt Both could boast of specialists in textile production Together with their wine oil and art Minoan and Mycenaean textiles were much desired as trade goods Artistic images of their fabrics preserved both in the Aegean and in other parts of the Mediterranean show elaborate patterns woven with rich decorative detail and colour Only a few small scraps of textiles survive but evidence for their production is abundant and frescoes supply detailed information about a wide variety of now lost textile goods from luxurious costumes and beautifully patterned wall hangings and carpets to more utilitarian decorated fabrics A review of surviving artistic and archaeological evidence indicates that textiles played essential practical and social roles in both Minoan and Mycenaean societies

Journal of Greek Archaeology Volume 3 2018 , 2018-10-31 True to its initial aims the latest volume of the Journal of Greek Archaeology runs the whole chronological range of Greek Archaeology while including every kind of material culture

Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Agata Ulanowska, Karina Grömer, Ina Vanden Berghe, Magdalena Öhrman, 2022-04-29 The diverse developments in textile research of the last decade along with the increased recognition of the importance of textile studies in adjacent fields now merit a dedicated full length publication entitled Ancient Textile Production from an Interdisciplinary Perspective Humanities and Natural Sciences Interwoven for our Understanding of Textiles With this volume the authors and the editors wish to illustrate to the current impact of textile archaeology on the scholarly perception of the past not limited to archaeology alone The volume presents new insights into the consumption meaning use and re use of textiles and dyes all of which are topics of growing importance in textile research As indicated by the title we demonstrate the continued importance of interdisciplinarity by showcasing several interwoven approaches to environmental and archaeological remains textual and iconographic sources archaeological experiments and ethnographic data from a large area covering Europe and the Mediterranean Near East Africa and Asia The chronological span is deliberately wide including materials dating from c 6th millennium BCE to c mid 14th century CE The volume is organised in four parts that aim to reflect the main areas of the textile research in 2020 After the two introductory chapters Part I About this Volume and Textile Research in 2020 follow two chapters referring to dyes and dyeing technology in which analytical and material based studies are linked to contextual sources Part II Interdisciplinarity of Colour Dye Analyses and Dyeing Technologies The six chapters of Part III Interdisciplinary Approaches to Textile Tools discuss textiles and textile production starting from the analyses of tools whether functional or as representative of technological developments or user identity Archaeological and cultural contexts as well as textile traditions are the main topics of the six chapters in Part IV Traditions and Contexts Fibres Fabrics Techniques Uses and Meanings The two final chapters in Part V Digital Tools refer to the use of digital tools in textile research presenting two different case studies

The Routledge Companion to Ecstatic Experience in the Ancient World Diana Stein, Sarah Kielt Costello, Karen Polinger Foster, 2021-12-30 For millennia people have universally engaged in ecstatic experience as an essential element in ritual practice spiritual belief and cultural identification This volume offers the first systematic investigation of its myriad roles and manifestations in the ancient Mediterranean and Near East The twenty nine contributors represent a broad range of scholarly disciplines seeking answers to fundamental questions regarding the patterns and commonalities of this vital aspect of the past How was the experience construed and by what means was it achieved Who was involved Where and when were rites carried out How was it reflected in pictorial arts and written records What was its relation to other components of the sociocultural compact In proposing responses the authors draw upon a wealth of original research in many fields generating new perspectives and thought provoking often surprising conclusions With their abundant cross cultural and cross temporal references the chapters mutually enrich each other and collectively deepen our understanding of ecstatic phenomena thousands of years ago Another noteworthy feature of the book is its illustrative content including commissioned reconstructions of ecstatic scenarios and pairings of works of Bronze Age and modern psychedelic art Scholars students and other readers interested in antiquity comparative religion and the social and cognitive sciences will find much to explore in the fascinating realm of ecstatic experience in the ancient world

Minoan Wall Painting of Pseira, Crete: A Goddess Worshipped in the Shrine, 2024-10-29 Short description Evidence is presented for restoring the fragmentary wall painting from the Minoan shrine on the islet of Pseira located just off the northeastern coast of Crete A large scale goddess faces a smaller suppliant in a presentation scene on an incurved altar platform Virtually restored to the east wall of Room 6 the goddess confirms the building as a shrine and religious center of the community The painting's Knossian style and technique and imported Knossian ritual vessels argue for a strong Knossian religious presence at Pseira Long description This study presents evidence for restoring the fragmentary painting from Pseira It argues against previous reconstructions finding errors including ignoring the fragments scales With the fragments scales accurately recorded the study reveals a large scale goddess facing a smaller suppliant in a presentation scene on an incurved altar platform The reconstruction is based on examinations drawings and photographs taken to scale of the fragments and digital imaging The painted garments are translated into modern cloth replicas that adorn live models that pose as goddess and suppliant Virtually restored to the east wall of Room 6 the goddess positively establishes the building already conjectured as a shrine and identifies it as the religious center of the community The painting's Knossian style and technique and imported Knossian ritual vessels argue for a strong Knossian religious presence at Pseira Knossian style

religious processions likely culminated at the shrine to present offerings to the goddess

The Competition of Fibres Wolfram Schier, Susan Pollock, 2020-04-30 The central issues discussed in this new collected work in the highly successful ancient textiles series are the relationships between fiber resources and availability on the one hand and the ways those resources were exploited to produce textiles on the other Technological and economic practices for example the strategies by which raw materials were acquired and prepared in the production of textiles play a major role in the papers collected here Contributions investigate the beginnings of wool use in western Asia and southeastern Europe The importance of wool in considerations of early textiles is due to at least two factors First both wild as well as some domesticated sheep are characterized by a hairy rather than a woolly coat This raises the question of when and where woolly sheep emerged a question that has not up to now been resolvable by genetic or other biological analyses Second wool as a fiber has played a major role both economically and socially in both western Asian and European societies from as early as the 3rd millennium BCE in Mesopotamia and it continues to do so in different ways up to the modern day Despite the importance of wool as a fiber resource contributors demonstrate clearly that its development and use can only be properly addressed in the context of a consideration of other fibers both plant and animal Only within a framework that takes into account historically and regionally variable strategies of procurement processing and the products of different types of fibers is it possible to gain real insights into the changing roles played by fibers and textiles in the lives of people in different places and times in the past With relatively rare albeit sometimes spectacular exceptions archaeological contexts offer only poor conditions of preservation for textiles As a result archaeologists are dependent on indirect or proxy indicators such as textile tools e g loom weights spindle whorls and the analysis of faunal remains to explore a range of such proxies and methods by which they may be analyzed and evaluated in order to contribute to an understanding of fiber and textile production and use in the past
