Lotz, 2018-04-13 The collision of new technologies changing business strategies and innovative storytelling that produced a new golden age of TV Cable television channels were once the backwater of American television programming recent and not so recent movies and reruns of network shows Then came La Femme Nikita OZ The Sopranos Mad Men Game of Thrones and The Walking Dead And then just as prestige cable became a category came House of Cards and Netflix Hulu Amazon Video and other Internet distributors of television content What happened In We Now Disrupt This Broadcast Amanda Lotz chronicles the collision of new technologies changing business strategies and innovative storytelling that produced an era termed peak TV Lotz explains that changes in the business of television expanded the creative possibilities of television She describes the costly infrastructure rebuilding undertaken by cable service providers in the late 1990s and the struggles of cable channels to produce and pay for original scripted programming in order to stand out from the competition These new programs defied television conventions and made viewers adjust their expectations of what television could be La Femme Nikita offered cable's first antihero Mad Men cost more than advertisers paid The Walking Dead became the first mass cable hit and Game of Thrones was the first global television blockbuster Internet streaming didn't kill cable Lotz tells us Rather it revolutionized how we watch television Cable and network television quickly established their own streaming portals Meanwhile cable service providers had quietly transformed themselves into Internet providers able to profit from both prestige cable and streaming services Far from being dead television continues to transform

Prestige Television Seth Friedman, Amanda Keeler, 2022-11-11 Prestige Television explores how a growing array of 21st century US programming is produced and received in ways that elevate select series above the competition in a saturated market Contributing authors demonstrate that these shows are positioned and understood as comprising an increasingly recognizable genre characterized by familiar markers of distinction In contrast to most accounts of elite categorizations of contemporary US television programming that center on HBO and its primary streaming rivals these essays examine how efforts to imbue series with prestigious or elevated status now permeate the rest of the medium including network as well as basic and undervalued premium cable channels Case study chapters focusing on diverse series ranging from widely recognized examples such as The Americans 2013 2018 and The Knick 2014 15 to contested examples like Queen of the South 2016 2021 and How I Met Your Mother 2005 2014 highlight how contributing authors extend conceptions of the genre beyond expected parameters

Crisis and Masculinity on Contemporary Cable Television: Tracing the Western Hero in "Breaking Bad", "The Walking Dead" and "Hell on Wheels" Dominic Schmiedl, 2015-09-08 Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2014 in the subject American Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade magna cum laude Dresden Technical University language English abstract Both the crisis of masculinity and quality TV have been popular discourses in academia in recent years Many of these contemporary quality TV series feature male anti heroes at the center of their narratives This dissertation argues that the constructions of masculinity in series such as Breaking Bad and The Walking Dead are informed by the Western hero Furthermore the dissertation links this recourse to an arguably outmoded model of masculinity to recent crisis tendencies in the USA most notably the recent economic downturn and the aftermath of September 11 2001 Moreover the return of the Western hero can be understood as a process of remasculinization in light of the crisis of masculinity The Spectator, 2007 Reinventing Cinema Chuck Tryon, 2009 For over a century movies have played an important role in our lives entertaining us often provoking conversation and debate Now with the rise of digital cinema audiences often encounter movies outside the theater and even outside the home Traditional distribution models are challenged by new media entrepreneurs and independent film makers usergenerated video film blogs mashups downloads and other expanding networks Reinventing Cinema examines film culture at the turn of this century at the precise moment when digital media are altering our historical relationship with the movies Spanning multiple disciplines Chuck Tryon addresses the interaction between production distribution and reception of films television and other new and emerging media Through close readings of trade publications DVD extras public lectures by new media leaders movie blogs and YouTube videos Tryon navigates the shift to digital cinema and examines how it is altering film and popular culture

Fathering Across Diversity and Adversity: International Perspectives and Policy Interventions Andrea Doucet, Elihu Katz, Paddy Scannell, Rosalind Edwards, Frank F. Furstenberg, 2009-07-15 Over the past few decades scholarly and policy interest in fatherhood and fathering has burgeoned in large part because of profound social changes in women's and men's lives in the last half of the twentieth century However this research has remained largely national in focus with little cross cultural dissemination of knowledge about fathering practices and supportive or constraining social policies This insightful volume presents a transatlantic perspective on fatherhood and fathering comparatively across nation states as well as in individual countries including the United States Canada United Kingdom and Norway Exploring the diversity of fatherhood it encompasses differences across social class race and ethnicity age and life course and varied household formations The articles examine young fathers separated and divorced fathers fathers from minority ethnic and immigrant groups working class fathers new fathers gay fathers and fathers of children with special needs Readers can gauge the different epochs of fathering over time and explore the tension that fathers may experience between being good financial providers and actively caring for their children. Authored by leading figures in fathering research from North America, Europe, and Scandinavia, the multilayered and intriguing articles in this volume of The ANNALS point toward the need for sustainable policy frameworks that enable fathers to be involved in their children's lives in ways that do not include biased assumptions about the expression of that involvement.

The End of Reading David Trend, 2010

Big changes have been taking place in reading in recent years. While American society has become more visual and digital, the general state of literacy in America is in crisis, with educators and public officials worried about falling educational standards, the rising influence of popular culture, and growing numbers of non-English speaking immigrants. But how justified are these worries? By focusing on reading, this book takes a serious look at public literacy but chooses not to blame the familiar scapegoats. Instead, The End of Reading proposes that in a diverse and rapidly changing society, we need to embrace multiple definitions of what it means to be a literate person.

Blowing Up the Brand Melissa Aronczyk, Devon Powers, 2010

This edited volume seeks to redress the lack of scholarly work that takes promotion seriously as a form of social, cultural, political, and economic exchange. It unpacks the vernacular, the institutional structures, and the practices and performances that make up promotional culture in everyday life, offering diverse critical perspectives on how, as citizens, consumers, and users, we absorb, navigate, confront, and resist its influence. Contributions from both renowned scholars and emerging intellectuals make this book a timely and valuable contribution to the fields of media and communication studies, political science, cultural studies, sociology, and anthropology.
