The Spill Sharon Bushell, Stan Jones, 2009 Twenty years after the Exxon Valdez ran aground on Bligh Reef sixty two men and women share personal stories of what they saw how they reacted and how they coped with North America s worst tanker oil spill Their anger and anguish had receded from view like oil seeping into rocky crevices on the beaches of Prince William Sound but the terrible memories were never far from the surface The stories tell of a shockingly slow response the struggle to save the stricken tanker the often heroic but largely futile efforts to limit the spread of oil and clean the beaches a heart breaking loss of fish and wildlife a crippling blow to the commercial fishing industry a public relations fiasco a lingering human toll and a loss of innocence among Alaskans who believed this spill would never happen Reliving their experiences are fishermen Native villagers biologists environmentalists sociologists Exxon executives the governor mayors journalists workers who washed oily rocks even the skipper of the ill fated ship
