The World We Found The Limits Of Ontological Talk:

The World We Found Mark Sacks, 1989 Ontology Dale Jacquette, 2014-12-18 The philosophical study of what exists and what it means for something to exist is one of the core concerns of metaphysics This introduction to ontology provides readers with a comprehensive account of the central ideas of the subject of being This book is divided into two parts The first part explores questions of pure philosophical ontology what is meant by the concept of being why there exists something rather than nothing and why there is only one logically contingent actual world Dale Jacquette shows how logic provides the only possible answers to these fundamental problems The second part of the book examines issues of applied scientific ontology Jacquette offers a critical survey of some of the most influential traditional ontologies such as the distinction between appearance and reality and the categories of substance and transcendence The ontology of physical entities space time matter and causation is examined as well as the ontology of abstract entities such as sets numbers properties relations and propositions The special problems posed by the subjectivity of mind and of postulating a god are also explored in detail The final chapter examines the ontology of culture language and art Metaphor and Continental Philosophy Clive Cazeaux, 2007-09-12 This book examines the relationship between metaphor art and science against the backdrop of modern European philosophy and in particular the work of Kant Heidegger and Merleau Ponty Reference, Truth and Conceptual Schemes G. Forrai, 2013-03-14 1 HISTORICAL BACKGROUND The purpose of the book is to develop internal realism the metaphysical epistemological doctrine initiated by Hilary Putnam Reason Truth and History Introduction Many Faces In doing so I shall rely sometimes quite heavily on the notion of conceptual scheme I shall use the notion in a somewhat idiosyncratic way which however has some affinities with the ways the notion has been used during its history So I shall start by sketching the history of the notion This will provide some background and it will also give opportunity to raise some of the most important problems I will have to solve in the later chapters The story starts with Kant Kant thought that the world as we know it the world of tables chairs and hippopotami is constituted in part by the human mind His central argument relied on an analysis of space and time and presupposed his famous doctrine that knowledge cannot extend beyond all possible experience It is a central property of experience he claimed that it is structured spatially and temporally However for various reasons space and time cannot be features of the world as it is independently of our experience So he concluded that they must be the forms of human sensibility i e necessary ingredients of the way things appear to our senses The Philosophical Review , 1992 Reason and the Nature of Texts James L. Battersby, 2016-11-11 Many of today's most prominent critics and teachers of literature insist on the endless deferral of textual meaning and on the social construction of meaning and thought Against these markers of current critical theory James L Battersby argues for the authorial construction of determinate textual meaning insisting that to think about anything at all we must be able to refer to it and that such references are necessarily the semantic consequences of an author's deliberate intentional acts Propelling

Battersby's argument is his use of principles and arguments drawn from current philosophical literature on language and mind. Battersby reveals the philosophical shortcomings and argumentative weaknesses of some of the most prominent and influential doctrines in critical theory today especially and principally those that inform and define postmodernism in both its linguistic and historicist materialist modes. As he argues for a fresh conception of our understanding of language, mind and meaning, Battersby probes the critical positions of among others Stanley Fish, Mikhail Bakhtin, Paul de Man and Jacques Derrida. Making room for an alternative and Battersby asserts more intellectually appealing framework requires a skeptical dissection of the linguistic and historicist tenets that form the foundation of poststructuralism. The striking outcome of his effort is a book as lively, erudite, theoretically informed and provocative as his earlier Paradigms Regained Points of View A. W. Moore, 2000. In this unusual and ambitious study, A. W. Moore argues that it is possible to think about the world with no point of view. The result of Moore's thinking leads to a powerful critique of our own finitude. La traduzione Susan Petrilli, 2000. Semiotica, 1997. International Philosophical Quarterly, 1961. The Journal of Philosophy, 1927. Covers topics in philosophy, psychology and scientific methods. Vols 31 include A Bibliography of philosophy 1933. Canadian Philosophical Reviews, 1990. Structuring the World Sami Pihlström, 1996. Unorthodox Views James L. Battersby, 2002-03-30. Much of contemporary critical theory holds that meaning is relative and subjective. This book scrutinizes the principal assumptions and beliefs about mind, language, meaning, truth and reality governing current debate and discussion not only in literary criticism and theory but also in the broader academic culture. In doing so, the volume brings support to the growing number of scholars who are expressing renewed interest in authors' determinate meanings, formal and aesthetic issues and related concerns but who have been laboring without sufficient theoretical arguments or justifications. Moving beyond critique, the book offers rigorous defenses of alternatives to the prevailing critical orthodoxies. The first five chapters address foundational issues, arguing against or exposing the limitations of the most common forms of linguistic idealism, social constructivism and relativism. These initial chapters prepare the way for subsequent discussions of more text-based matters such as the authorial determination of artistic effects, the bases of our emotional and evaluative responses to fiction, the justifications of our decisions about intrinsic merit and artistic value and other matters crucial to our understanding of the meanings and values implicit in human expression. World and Life-world Balázs M. Mezei, 1995. The author investigates in depth the development of two central notions in Edmund Husserl's philosophy: the notion of world and life-world. He considers some of the difficulties given in these concepts, evaluates criticism on Husserlian phenomenology and with reference to the work of Jan Patocka, he offers an outline of a new critical reading of the method of Husserl's epoché.

Philosophical and Ideological Perspectives on Education Gerald Lee Gutek, 1997. This second edition continues to examine the major schools of philosophy of education through the systems approach. It also considers the relationship of education to major ideologies such as Liberalism, Conservatism and Marxism. The third section on Educational Theory analyzes the impact of philosophy and ideology on educational theory and practice by examining such theories as Essentialism Perennialism Progressivism and Social Reconstructionism Although focusing on the philosophy of education this book provides a three dimensional introduction to educational ideas First it examines the major philosophical systems and ideologies that have shaped educational thought and practice Second it outlines certain ideas from philosophy and ideology to illustrate how these disciplines contribute to educational theory Third in seeking to provide a context for educational philosophy ideology and theory it includes biographical sketches of principal originators or contributors of leading ideas about education For professionals working in the field of education The New Scholasticism Edward Aloysius Pace, James Hugh Ryan, 1989 Includes section Book Reviews Reality Lost and Found Søren Harnow Klausen, 2004 Is there a world out there independent of the way we experience it think of it or talk about it If so can we know how it is These questions have been a central concern of philosophy throughout most of its history and they continue to be the subject of an intense debate between realists and antirealists In this clearly written and comprehensive book Søren Harnow Klausen presents an argument for realism about the external world but also attempts to take the antirealist challenge seriously a sensible realist must acknowledge the force of the skeptical objections and avoid overstating her own case The book covers a wide range of themes from the historical origins of antirealism and the views of Berkeley Kant Husserl and the logical positivists to the most recent developments in epistemology and relevant empirical research in psychology anthropology and linguistics Topics also include the definition of realism and its relationship to semantics and theories of truth the prospect of providing a transcendental argument for realism inference to the best explanation externalist theories of justification the basis of our understanding of mind independent reality the relevance of evolutionary biology to the realism issue and theories of intentionality and perception International Yearbook of German Idealism , 2007 International Current Awareness Services , 1994 Indexes current publications in anthropology including material too ephemeral for its parent annual the International bibliography of social and cultural anthropology and has only limited coverage of monographs
