Christianity and Migration Peter C. Phan,Oxford Editor,2025-10-07 This book essays a not the Christian theology of migration The phenomenon of human migration that is the movement of people to and settlement temporary or permanent in a new area or country its causes and reasons and its historical anthropological social political legal and cultural dimensions have been widely studied and reasonably well understood and the next chapter will discuss them in detail By contrast theology as an academic discipline seems least capable of illuminating this human phenomenon It appears to most people outside the church and its educational institutions to be at best an esoteric subject and at worst a convoluted and useless mumbo jumbo especially when liberally sprinkled with Greek and Latin phrases Why not leave the study of migration to scholars in history sociology anthropology economics politics and law who albeit no less infected with highfalutin language than theologians do at least try to offer practical policies and effective strategies either for or against immigration Provided by publisher

Although humans have always migrated the present phenomenon of mass migration is unprecedented in scale and global in reach. Understanding migration and migrants has become increasingly relevant for world Christianity. This volume identifies and addresses several key topics in the discourse of world Christianity and migration. Senior and emerging scholars and researchers of migration from all regions of the world contribute chapters on central issues including the feminization of international migration, the theology of migration, south-south migration networks, the connection between world Christianity, migration and civic responsibility, and the complicated relationship between migration, identity and citizenship. It seeks to give voice particularly to migrant narratives as important sources for public reasoning and theology in the 21st century.

Theologies and Practices of Inclusion Nina Kurlberg, Madleina Daenhardt, 2021-10-08. Inclusion has recently become a high priority issue within the development sector brought to the fore by the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development's commitment to leave no one behind. Practices within the remit of inclusion often focus on increasing access and meaningful participation with emphasis placed on bringing those at the margins to the centre. Theologies and Practices of Inclusion challenges such centre-focused practices from a global perspective based on research conducted within the Christian relief development and advocacy organisation Tearfund and beyond. Offering inspiration for practitioners within the sector and faith-based organisations in particular as well as an academic contribution to the fields of international development studies and theology, the book aims to bridge theology and practice in an accessible way. Consisting of 13 chapters and case studies, this book draws on the wisdom of a diverse team of contributors at the forefront of international development working in a variety of contexts. These include South Africa, Malaysia, Sri Lanka, Ethiopia, Nigeria, Kenya, Rwanda, Ecuador, Panama, Bolivia, the Philippines, Iraq, Egypt, and the UK. Highlighting journey, change and belonging as three key aspects of inclusion, the book explores the outworking of theologies of inclusion within organisational practice. With a foreword by Ruth Valerio and an afterword by Catriona Dejean.

The Hermeneutical Spirit Amos Yong, 2017-11-06 In the contemporary biblical studies climate proposals regarding the theological interpretation of Scripture are contested particularly but not only because they privilege encourage and foster ecclesial or other forms of normative commitments as part and parcel of the hermeneutical horizon through which scriptural texts are read and understood Within this context confessional approaches have been emerging including some from within the nascent pentecostal theological tradition This volume builds on the author s previous work in theological method to suggest a pentecostal perspective on theological interpretation that is rooted in the conviction that all Christian reading of sacred Scripture is post Pentecost meaning after the Day of Pentecost outpouring of the Spirit on all flesh in anticipation of the coming reign of God In that respect such a pentecostal interpretative perspective is not parochially for those within the modern day movement bearing that name but is arguably apostolic in following after the scriptural imagination of the earliest disciples of Jesus the messiah and therefore has ecumenical and missional purchase across space and time The Hermeneutical Spirit thus provides close readings of various texts across the scriptural canon as a model for Christian theological interpretation of Scripture suitable for the twenty first century global context
