point producing a cloud of points referenced to an arbitrary coordinate system and a full camera calibration and the multi view stereopsis MVS algorithm which applies an expanding procedure of sparse set of matched keypoints in order to obtain a dense point cloud The set of technical advances described above allows for geometric modeling of terrain surfaces with high accuracy minimizing the need for topographic campaigns for georeferencing of such products This Special Issue aims to compile some applications realized thanks to the synergies established between new remote sensing from close distances and UAV photogrammetry

The Oxford Handbook of Museum Archaeology Alice Stevenson,2022-08-25 This Handbook provides a transnational reference point for critical engagements with the legacies of and futures for global archaeological collections It challenges the common misconception that museum archaeology is simply a set of procedures for managing and exhibiting assemblages Instead this volume advances museum archaeology as an area of reflexive research and practice addressing the critical issues of what gets prioritized by and researched in museums by whom how and why Through twenty eight chapters authors problematize and suggest new ways of thinking about historic contemporary and future relationships between archaeological fieldwork and museums as well as the array of institutional and cultural paradigms through which archaeological enquiries are mediated Case studies embrace not just archaeological finds but also archival field notes photographic media archaeological samples and replicas Throughout museum activities are put into dialogue with other aspects of archaeological practice with the aim of situating museum work within a more holistic archaeology that does not privilege excavation or field survey above other aspects of disciplinary engagement These concerns will be grounded in the realities of museums internationally including Latin America Africa Asia Oceania North America and Europe In so doing the common heritage sector refrain best practice is not assumed to solely emanate from developed countries or European philosophies but instead is considered as emerging from and accommodated within local concerns and diverse museum cultures
