Refrigerant Piping Requirements

notes

Thermostatic Expansion Valve (TXV)

The second requirement of the refrigerant piping design is to ensure that only liquid refrigerant enters the expansion device. There are several types of expansion devices, including expansion valves (thermostatic or electronic), capillary tubes, and orifices.

In addition to maintaining the pressure difference between the high-pressure (condenser) and low-pressure (evaporator) sides of the system, a thermostatic expansion valve (TXV) also controls the quantity of liquid refrigerant that enters the evaporator. This ensures that the refrigerant will be completely vaporized within the evaporator, and maintains the proper amount of superheat in the system.

Subcooling

Inside the condenser, after all of the refrigerant vapor has condensed into liquid, the refrigerant is subcooled to further lower its temperature. This subcooled liquid refrigerant leaves the condenser (A) and experiences a pressure drop as it flows through the liquid line and accessories, such as a filter
