The Conquest of Ruins Julia Hell, 2019-03-19 The Roman Empire has been a source of inspiration and a model for imitation for Western empires practically since the moment Rome fell Yet as Julia Hell shows in The Conquest of Ruins what has had the strongest grip on aspiring imperial imaginations isn't that empire's glory but its fall and the haunting monuments left in its wake Hell examines centuries of European empire building from Charles V in the sixteenth century and Napoleon's campaigns of the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries to the atrocities of Mussolini and the Third Reich in the 1930s and 40s and sees a similar fascination with recreating the Roman past in the contemporary image In every case particularly that of the Nazi regime the ruins of Rome seem to represent a mystery to be solved how could an empire so powerful be brought so low Hell argues that this fascination with the ruins of greatness expresses a need on the part of would-be conquerors to find something to ward off a similar demise for their particular empire

Delusion and Dream Sigmund Freud, 2020-10-28 Delusion and Dream in Jensen's Gradiva German Der Wahn und die Tr ume in W Jensens Gradiva Sigmund Freud 1907 Delusion and Dream in Jensen's Gradiva German Der Wahn und die Tr ume in W Jensens Gradiva is an essay written in 1907 by Sigmund Freud that subjects the novel Gradiva by Wilhelm Jensen and especially its protagonist to psychoanalysis The novel is about a young archaeologist Norbert Hanold who comes to realize his love for his childhood friend through a long and complex process mainly by associating her with an idealized woman in the form of the Gradiva bas relief Freud considered the novel as providing a prime example of something which might be called cure by seduction or cure by love as well as evidence that the Oedipus complex is still active in normal adults too An isolated unworldly individual Hanold has repressed the memory of a girl Zo Bertgang with whom he has grown up and to whom he had been affectionately attached but is unconsciously reminded of her by a bas relief depicting a young lovely woman with a distinctive gait He calls her Gradiva which means the woman who steps along After a dream about Gradiva and the destruction of Pompeii Hanold leaves for Pompeii where he meets a young woman very much alive whom he takes for Gradiva In the course of the meetings that follow he organizes his mania stalking and interpreting signs Gradiva appears at noon the ghost hour and the like Gradiva seeks to cure him by gradually revealing her identity to him The woman is of course Hanold's childhood sweetheart Zo and fortunately his Gradiva is as shrewd as she is beautiful Zo the source of his malaise also becomes the agent of its resolution recognizing Hanold's delusions for what they are she restores him to sanity disentangling his fantasies from reality it is only Zo who can tell him that his archeological interest is sublimated desire for her With respect to the final paragraph in which Jensen has Hanold asking Zo to walk ahead of him and she complies with a smile Freud put Erotic foot interest By walking ahead of him in imitation of Gradiva on the plaque she finds the key to his therapy
