Tobacco Road Erskine Caldwell, 1935 Jeeter Lester a poor Georgia sharecropper and his family struggle to get by but when his son Dude is seduced and married by Jeeter's widowed sister it starts a tragic chain of events The Nation's Region Leigh Anne Duck, 2009 How could liberalism and apartheid coexist for decades in our country as they did during the first half of the twentieth century This study looks at works by such writers as Thomas Dixon Erskine Caldwell Zora Neale Hurston William Faulkner and Ralph Ellison to show how representations of time in southern narrative first accommodated but finally elucidated the relationship between these two political philosophies Although racial segregation was codified by U S law says Leigh Anne Duck nationalist discourse downplayed its significance everywhere but in the South where apartheid was conceded as an immutable aspect of an anachronistic culture As the nation modernized the South served as a repository of the country's romantic notions the region was represented as a close knit custom bound place through which the nation could temper its ambivalence about the upheavals of progress The Great Depression changed this Amid economic anxiety and the international rise of fascism writes Duck the trope of the backward South began to comprise an image of what the United States could become As she moves from the Depression to the nascent years of the civil rights movement to the early cold war era Duck explains how experimental writers in each of these periods challenged ideas of a monolithically archaic South through innovative representations of time She situates their narratives amid broad concern regarding national modernization and governance as manifest in cultural and political debates sociological studies and popular film Although southern modernists modes and methods varied along this trajectory their purpose remained focused to explore the mutually constitutive relationships between social forms considered southern and national Men Working John Faulkner, 1936 This novel of Mississippi hill country life depicts some of the more troubling and unpublicized aspects of the New Deal by tracing the fortunes of the Taylor family sharecroppers who move to town to work for the WPA and A the Works Progress Administration John Faulkner a one time WPA project engineer has much to satirize in this broadly comic novel First and foremost are the Taylors exasperating and unemployable they are unaccountably abiding hopelessly destitute they place a higher premium on a new radio than on food and shelter Faulkner also casts a sardonic eye on the town merchants who extend credit to WPA workers as quickly as they inflate prices and of course on the WPA itself an agency that entices naive desperate country folk with the promise of a dole only to lay them off and then ignore them In his foreword Trent Watts establishes the singularity of Men Working while noting in it echoes of Tobacco Road As I Lay Dying and The Grapes of Wrath Watts also identifies in John Faulkner's tone an ambivalence shared by many southerners who witnessed the changes wrought by progress upon their traditional way of life Dixie Rising Peter Applebome, 2012-05-30 In a provocative exploration of the triumphant South the region that increasingly defines American politics and values the former Atlanta bureau chief of The New York Times illuminates the people places and passions of this influential section of the country an area that has effectively decided the outcome of every presidential election in the past 30 years Reading Erskine Caldwell Robert L. McDonald, 2006-01-24 Erskine Caldwell has been compared to literary giants like Faulkner and Hemingway yet he has also been reviled as peddler of pop trash Was he a genius or just a shooting star whose brilliance faded long before he stopped writing Caldwell began his career in the late 1920s and gained fame for revealing the gritty backwoods South in novels such as his seminal Tobacco Road He wrote prolifically sometimes as much as a book a year As the editor of this book maintains perhaps anyone who wrote so much would inevitably stumble These 12 essays explore a variety of issues They discuss Caldwell as humorist social commentator modernist and revolutionary novelist They examine his themes and tropes political images social injustice the environment ideological struggles and his use of artistic devices short stories cubist strategies repetition A generous bibliography includes not only books on Caldwell but also chapters and forewords journal articles essays news items and obituaries The reader is encouraged to look at Caldwell with fresh eyes to press beyond his controversial image and to compare his works especially his early ones to those of any of the top names in literature

Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007 ,2008-02 House & Garden ,1945 Journal of American Culture ,1988 Dixie Highway Tammy Ingram, 2014-03-03 At the turn of the twentieth century good highways eluded most Americans and nearly all southerners In their place a jumble of dirt roads covered the region like a bed of briars Introduced in 1915 the Dixie Highway changed all that by merging hundreds of short roads into dual interstate routes that looped from Michigan to Miami and back In connecting the North and the South the Dixie Highway helped end regional isolation and served as a model for future interstates In this book Tammy Ingram offers the first comprehensive study of the nation s earliest attempt to build a highway network revealing how the modern U S transportation system evolved out of the hard fought political economic and cultural contests that surrounded the Dixie s creation The most visible success of the Progressive Era Good Roads Movement the Dixie Highway also became its biggest casualty It sparked a national dialogue about the power of federal and state agencies the role of local government and the influence of ordinary citizens In the South it caused a backlash against highway bureaucracy that stymied road building for decades Yet Ingram shows that after the Dixie Highway the region was never the same Horticulture ,1947
