The Upside Down Kin-dom

Melissa Hendricks Wike, 2023 The Sacrament of Holy Communion will forever bring forth God's gracious transformative inclusive invitation to all people including people with disabilities and all those oppressed by systems who value money power and control God of All sent Jesus of Nazareth the Incarnate God born of Mary and he came and humbly walked this earth ministering to and healing people living with their backs against the wall In Luke's Gospel Jesus tells parables in such a way as the people of the first century could easily relate In particular Jesus speaks directly to the growing threat against the poor sick and those with various disabilities The author Luke for this project remains anonymous as do many facts about him but one thing is certain he is also concerned about the growing gap between the wealthy and the poor and exactly how those with much should give to those with little to nothing Moreover it is clear from the gospel and Jesus that the typical blaming and shaming does not occur with those he touched Jesus's presence begins to dissolve the old law and point to the kingdom of God where all people have the opportunity to serve the Divine equally The drama unfolds in six distinct yet connected chapters which includes an introduction and conclusion The introduction will explain the thesis statement by considering a theological anthropology of disability Definitions of disability and models of disability will be included in chapter two as well as key terms defined such as sacrament hospitality healing equality access vulnerability honor with justice and ableism will be discussed throughout In chapter three the theology of disability will be defined and explore from a variety of theologians scholars and authors that have found their voices from the experience of disability Chapter four will include scriptural considerations including the hermeneutic of suspicion cures healings and theodicy In chapter five the Gospel of Luke 14:1-6 and 14:7-14 and 14:15-24 will be discussed in detail where metaphor is used by Jesus to get his point across from those listening in the ancient day and modern day readers with disabilities seeking answers together Afterward conclusions will be presented including how the key scripture Luke 14:15-24 can speak to the typical mainline or any Christian Church in more effective ways reaching people with disabilities inviting them not only to worship study and fellowship but to celebrate the kingdom in one very special way through the sacraments Particularly it is through Holy Communion that we feel a connection with our Creator our Disabled Christ our true selves as God created us and our siblings in the faith This student has traveled a difficult physical and spiritual journey through a dark valley of suffering and pain asking all the valid questions to come through to the other side of bright sunshine One lesson learned is that Holy Communion can infuse healing energy into our hearts minds and lives with purpose and joy and it is at the open table people can begin to feel and share this healing connection with one another and God This connection is divine Love experienced as hospitality and continued through the never failing hope of the Spirit's gifts bestowed upon God's people The world would have people believe that money power and prestige are the most important things to accomplish but these are tangible and will ultimately disappoint On the contrary Jesus gathered around the Table showing the greatest honor to the poorest and most marginalized of his time Honor and justice may be restored to people with disabilities and their brothers and sisters in faith who also struggle with systems of injustice The Sacrament makes it possible for people of all abilities to experience hospitality hope honor and given freedom and justice in this upside down paradoxical biblical world where Jesus turns the tables on everything we hold to be true from a disability standpoint Anyone who has ridden one of the new roller coasters that literally goes upside down knows the fear and excitement the shame and adventure exclusion and inclusion People with disabilities continue to suffer rejection at the right side up church due to different fears and the costs of money and discipleship The changing of the word kingdom to kin dom is revealed to be God s hospitable desire for all people to be invited welcomed included and loved not only in the community but also in the church

Searching for Dignity John Claassens, Leslie Swartz, Len Hansen, 2013-08-01 This publication fills a unique gap in the theological and religious engagement with the issue of human disability in South Africa Combining the contributions of scholars practitioners and people living with disabilities it stands out for the way in which it promotes an interdisciplinary debate on disability and human dignity from a theological point of departure and interest The end result is a collective effort with a critical approach to the role of religion and the Christian faith tradition in particular in the social and life worlds of people living with disabilities A forceful argument is thus constructed about ways in which religion and the Christian faith tradition should change their own discourses practices and ideological presuppositions regarding the issue of human disability Cobus van Wyngaard Department of Philosophy Practical and Systematic Theology University of South Africa

Human Difference Andrew Barron, 2024-08-06 Living in proximity to human disability with a son who has Down Syndrome Andrew Barron has come to understand that not only do we live in a world of human difference but that God wants us to live in this kind of world for our own flourishing Human Difference is an extended meditation on that experience and a reflection on the nature of human care and hospitality Barron seeks to understand and embrace the uncertainty that comes with living in proximity to difference and disability and reflects on how we might better cope with and ultimately be enriched by its ambiguity He undertakes a new approach to difference we must be ready to venture into uncomfortable territory to put out into the deep water and to actively seek out an intimate and open closeness with difference and disability

Redefining Perfect Amy E. Jacober, 2017-12-05 Theology and disability have not always had an easy relationship The interactions have ranged from downright hostile to indifferent or unintentionally excluding over the centuries This theology book chooses instead to include those with disabilities after more than a decade of consideration and study This results in a re examination of major theological topics and the impact on the lives of those with disabilities their family and friends and the community at large The focus of the book is to move the church beyond welcome to inclusion where those with disabilities move from a guest of the community to equal and valued member of the community While the book is about the theological inclusion of those with disabilities its implications reach far beyond It sets an approach for all people to find a place where they too may live in the fullness of Christian community Stories of personal encounters are blended with explanations of doctrinal perspectives giving the reader a chance to connect knowledge with wisdom born from real life experience Theology and the Experience of Disability Andrew Picard, Myk Habets, 2016-04-28 The Christian gospel compels humanity to embrace deeper ways of being human together that will overcome false divisions and exclusions in search of flourishing and graced communities Presenting both short narratives emerging out of theological reflection on experience and analytical essays arising from engagement in scholarly conversations Theology and the Experience of Disability is a conscious attempt to develop theology by and with people with disabilities instead of theology about people with disabilities A mixture of academic professional practical and or lived experience is brought to the topic in search of constructive multi disciplinary proposals for church and society The result is an interdisciplinary engagement with the constructive possibilities that emerge from a distinctly Christian understanding of disability as lived experience

Disability and Christian Theology Embodied Limits and Constructive Possibilities Deborah Beth Creamer, 2009-01-05 Attention to embodiment and the religious significance of bodies is one of the most significant shifts in contemporary theology In the midst of this however experiences of disability have received little attention This book explores possibilities for theological engagement with disability focusing on three primary alternatives challenging existing theological models to engage with the disabled body considering possibilities for a disability liberation theology and exploring new theological options based on an understanding of the unsurprisingness of human limits The overarching perspective of this book is that limits are an unavoidable aspect of being human a fact we often seem to forget or deny Yet not only do all humans experience limits most of us also experience limits that take the form of disability at some point in our lives in this way disability is more normal than non disability If we take such experiences seriously and refuse to reduce them to mere instances of suffering we discover insights that are lost when we take a perfect or generic body as our starting point for theological reflections While possible applications of this insight are vast this work focuses on two areas of particular interest theological anthropology and metaphors for God This project challenges theology to consider the undeniable diversity of human embodiment It also enriches previous disability work by providing an alternative to the dominant medical and minority models both of which fail to acknowledge the full diversity of disability experiences Most notably this project offers new images and possibilities for theological construction that attend appropriately and creatively to diversity in human embodiment The Julian Way Justin Hancock, 2018-06-07 This book invites its readers to an exploration of some of the greatest theologians in Christian history through the lens of disability theology in order to understand how the Christian Church is intended to deal with the ever evolving concept and reality that is the disabled human experience This books brings together an account of the history of disability civil rights beginning in the early twentieth century and evolving to the present day It takes a look at some of the foremost theologians in Christian history as seen through the lens of disability theology in order to help the reader gain an understanding of a diverse unique and ever evolving culture According to the CDC as of 2015 approximately 53 million Americans live with some form of disability This book attempts to offer a new way forward for the church to engage with this incredibly diverse unique and wonderful culture by offering first a brief introduction to the history of disability civil rights to allow the reader to understand and experience how many of the trends and forces that shape civil rights on a broad national level were present from the very beginning within the disabled community and the movement towards the ADA Then by exploring some of the greatest theologians in the history of the church this book hopes to illuminate the ways in which the church has served those with disabilities well and in many cases not so well throughout its history Finally the book will close with a hopeful optimistic and yet practical way forward rooted in the concepts of hospitality community and mutuality that we call the Julian Way

Human Disability and the Service of God Nancy L. Eiesland,1998 Explores the role of human disability in the service of God and examines how the participation of people with disabilities relate to the scriptures that speak of sin disability and healing Challenges the current practices within the churches encourages people with disabilities to press for full inclusion suggests that congregations should re envision their actual practices in communal life and worship and presents a selection entitled Disabling the Lie Includes topic and name indices

Copious Hosting Jennie Weiss Block,2002-01-17 It is estimated that there are 43 million Americans with one or more physical or mental disabilities Over the past several decades the disability movement has grown in strength and sophistication attaining maturity with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 This landmark civil rights legislation ushered in a new era for people with disabilities Many religious people however well meaning are unfamiliar with the language and philosophy of the disability movement They unintentionally give offense by language and actions that reflect a by gone era This book aims to do two things to acquaint church and synagogue leaders with the history and philosophy of the disability movement and to provide resources from scripture and theology for thinking and preaching about disability in a new way

Theology, Disability, and Spiritual Transformation Michael Hryniuk,2010 In this study Michael Hryniuk develops a full phenomenological psychological and theological account of spiritual transformation in the context of L Arche a federation of Christian communities that welcome persons with learning disabilities The book begins with a critical examination of current perspectives on spiritual transformation in theology and Christian spirituality and constructs a new foundational formulation of transformation as a shift in consciousness identity and behavior Through extensive analysis of the narratives of the caregiver assistants who share life with those who are disabled this case study reveals an alternative vision of the three fold way that unfolds through a series of profound awakenings in relationships of mutual care and presence an awakening to the capacity to love to bear inner anguish and darkness and to experience radical human and divine acceptance The book examines the psychological dimensions of spiritual transformation through the lens of contemporary affect theory and explores how care givers experience a profound healing of shame in their felt sense of identity and self worth

Discovering Trinity in Disability Myroslaw I. Tataryn, Maria Truchan-Tataryn, 2013-03-01 Accessible Atonement

Associate Tutor David McLachlan, 2021-03-15 The atonement where God in Jesus Christ addresses sin and the whole of the human predicament lies at the heart of the Christian faith and life Its saving power is for all people and yet a deep hesitancy has prevented meaningful discussion of the cross relevance for people with disabilities Speaking of disability and the multifaceted concept of the atonement has created an unresolvable tension not least because sin and disability often seem to be associated within the biblical text While work in disability theology has made great progress in developing a positive theological framework for disability as an integral part of human diversity it has so far fallen short of grappling with this particular set of interpretive challenges presented by the cross In Accessible Atonement reflecting on his experience as both a pastor and a theologian David McLachlan brings the themes and objectives of disability theology into close conversation with traditional ideas of the cross as Jesus sacrifice justice and victory From this conversation emerges an account of the atonement as God s deepest once for all participation in both the moral and contingent risk of creation where all that alienates us from God and each other is addressed Such an atonement is inherently inclusive of all people and is not one that is extended to disability as a special case This approach to the atonement opens up space to address both the redemption of sin and the possibilities of spiritual and bodily healing What McLachlan leads us to discover is that when revisited in this way the cross perhaps surprisingly becomes the cornerstone of Christian disability theology and the foundation of many of its arguments Far from excluding those who find themselves physically or mentally outside of assumed norms the atoning death of Christ creates a vital space of inclusion and affirmation for such persons within the life of the church Eleanor McLaughlin Lecturer in Theology and Ethics Regent s Park College University of Oxford
