property law theory and forest and soil sciences Within this scope and against the historical background the recent interrelations between the Amazonian indigenous peoples land forest and community forest management rights and their importance for the self determination of indigenous peoples in the Amazonian region are examined Through bringing together international law with national law natural resources law with property law and law with natural sciences the author sheds new light on the complex topic of indigenous peoples rights closely entwined with the conservation of the Amazonian rainforest

Sustainable Forest Management John L. Innes, Anna V. Tikina, 2016-12-19 Sustainable Forest Management provides the necessary material to educate students about forestry and the contemporary role of forests in ecosystems and society This comprehensive textbook on the concept and practice of sustainable forest management sets the standard for practice worldwide Early chapters concentrate on conceptual aspects relating sustainable forestry management to international policy In particular they consider the concept of criteria and indicators and how this has determined the practice of forest management taken here to be the management of forested lands and of all ecosystems present on such lands Later chapters are more practical in focus concentrating on the management of the many values associated with forests Overall the book provides a major new synthesis which will serve as a textbook for undergraduates of forestry as well as those from related disciplines such as ecology or geography who are taking a course in forests or natural resource management

Forest Landscape Restoration Stephanie Mansourian, John Parrotta, 2018-09-03 Forest landscape restoration FLR is a planned process that aims to regain ecological integrity and enhance human wellbeing in deforested or degraded landscapes The aim of this book is to explore options to better integrate the diverse dimensions spatial disciplinary sectoral and scientific of implementing FLR It demonstrates the value of an integrated and interdisciplinary approach to help implement FLR focusing specifically on four issues understanding the drivers of forest loss and degradation in the context of interdisciplinary responses for FLR learning from related integrated approaches governance issues related to FLR as an integrated process and the management creation and use of different sources of knowledge in FLR implementation The emphasis is on recognising the need to take human and institutional factors into consideration as well as the more obvious biophysical factors A key aim is to advance and accelerate the practice of FLR given its importance particularly in a world facing increasing environmental challenges notably from climate change The first section of the book presents the issue from an analytical and problem orientated viewpoint while later sections focus on solutions It will interest researchers and professionals in forestry ecology geography environmental governance and landscape studies
