Voices Of Hunger Food Insecurity In The United States:

Voices of Hunger Courtney Irene Powell Thomas, 2014-08 The Intersection of Food and Public Health A. Bryce Hoflund, John C. Jones, Michelle C. Pautz, 2017-09-13 Presently ideas about food are in flux from a variety of sources Examples of this evolution include recognizing the importance of food on health by public health and medical professionals changing consumer desires around the production methods and components of their food a greater focus on injustices within the national food system evolving knowledge of how the food system impacts the environment and shifting economic and technological realities that underpin where and how food is produced distributed and sold These shifting ideas about food exist in contrast to the narrative of the highly functioning industrialized global food system that emerged in the second half of the 20th century This edited volume fills a void by presenting a comprehensive and engaging coverage of the key issues at the intersection of public health policy and food The Intersection of Food and Public Health is comprised of research that examines current problems in food studies and how various stakeholders are attempting to address problems in unique ways The book will be of interest to undergraduate and graduate students in a variety of disciplines including public administration public policy public health economics political science nutrition dietetics and food studies Confronting Hunger in the USA Adam M. Pine, 2016-07-01 Food insecurity in the US is a critical issue that is experienced by approximately 15% of the population each year Hunger is not caused by an inability to produce enough food for the population but is instead a manifestation of federal agricultural policies that support the overproduction of commodity crops and neoliberal social policies that seek to lower the amount of benefits dispersed to those in need This book focuses on how four different food based community programs address both the physical sensation of hunger as well as the political and economic disempowerment that work against the ability of people experiencing food insecurity to mobilize as a political force Confronting Hunger in the USA argues that most food programs do more to create community among their volunteers than among program participants and tend to reinforce neoliberal understandings of citizenship Community food programs reach out to the most vulnerable members of society in caring and gentle ways and often use the language of alternative economies to articulate a different relationship between the individual and the state However the projects in this study act as individual pieces of the state s insufficient social safety net and are only beginning to articulate a new relationship between food and society Food Security in the Era of the SDGs Alberto D. Cimaadamore, Carlos B. Cherniak, 2025-05-24 This book addresses the challenges to achieve food security which can arguably be one of the axis of any transformational solution to the structural production and reproduction of hunger malnutrition and poverty According to the picture depicted in the book access to sufficient and safe food is not guaranteed for approximately 2.4 billion people with women and children in rural areas being the most significantly affected Particularly the situation concerning children has set off all the alarms Based on the data offered in the different chapters the authors estimate that would be very difficult if not impossible to achieve the most important global objectives that the international community has committed to achieving by 2030 ending poverty hunger and food insecurity This way the most ambitious and well intended development initiative the international community was able to put together in the history of humankind the Agenda 2030 is derailing Urgent expansion in the supply of the nutritious foods that constitute a healthy diet and a shift in consumption patterns are required among other things to effectively address SDGs targets The book presents and discusses contributions of authors who have been thinking and facing those challenges in the academia and decision making spheres It is also a relevant contribution to rethinking the public policies of Latin American and Caribbean LAC countries as well as the technical cooperation and financial assistance schemes for the region The rethinking exercise sketched here places LAC both as a critical scenario and as a laboratory for envisioning innovative solutions that have the potential to not only transform the regional reality but also to be replicated in other regions with the proper adaptation to different contexts U.S. Participation in the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations United States. design and participate in planning policy processes Such a planning approach requires that progress toward equitable outcomes is consistently evaluated through accountability measures And finally such an approach requires attention to structural and institutional inequities Addressing these four elements is more likely to create a condition under which urban agriculture may be used as a lever in the planning and development of more just and equitable cities This is an open access book This is an open access book
