World Solar Architecture S. V. Szokolay, 1980-01-01 World solar architecture, by... Steven V. Szokolay, 1980 Solar Architecture in Cool Climates Colin Porteous, 2012-04-27 A must read for practitioners teachers and others interested in or working with energy use in the built environment including a delightful set of examples Ann Grete Hestnes former President of the International Solar Energy Society Solar Architecture in Cool Climates is an invaluable primer on low energy building design combining accessible information with convincing arguments enabling new techniques to be implemented in daily practice Approaching the topic in a thematic manner the book provides inspiration an understanding of key principles and technical data on the design of solar buildings in higher latitudes The text is enlivened through direct experience of case studies from Europe and North America dealing with new build retrofitting and conceptual projects that outline future potential the principles being equally applicable to equivalent southern latitude locations The authors examine the dilution of additional costs through different strategies the tensions between energy efficiency and environmental quality and the proactive control of energy in building design Promoting flexibility and opportunity to a diverse audience including those who use procure and finance buildings the book aims to bring the design of green solar buildings in cool climates from special interest status into the mainstream Broader environmental issues relating to solar architecture are addressed in the final chapter again drawing on case studies from the authors own wide experience Solar Architecture in Cool Climates is written for architects and other building designers students of architecture and other professionals interested in sustainable architecture renewable energy and engineering Architecture in Brisbane Graham De Gruchy, 1988 This is a reprint of the edition which was first printed in 1988 World Architecture ,1998 Solar Power for the World Wolfgang Palz, 2013-10-21 The book describes the industrial revolution associated with the implementation of electric power generation by photovoltaics PV The book s editor and contributing authors are among the leading pioneers in PV from its industrial birth in 1954 all the way up to the stormy developments during the first decade of the new century The book describes the dramatic events in industry between 2009 and 2013 and puts all this into perspective It concludes that solar power is yet to strengthen its role in technology and in mainstream of the world s economy China's Industrial Development In The 21st Century Hong Yu, Mu Yang, 2011-02-18 This unique book intends to provide a focused analysis of the main Chinese industrial sectors through case studies data analysis and review of new state initiated policies In response to the global economic crisis in the short run and to cope with the existing structural problems of production in the long run the Chinese central government has successively released new development outlines for 10 key industries since 2008 In this book the authors will use key sectors including automobile steel shipbuilding high speed railway and new energy to analyze the development of China s industries along with their challenges and future prospects The effectiveness of state oriented policies in rejuvenating these industries will be evaluated After discussing the background and motivations for the new government initiated policies through detailed analysis of these policies the authors will assess the contribution they have made to industrial development The authors will also identify and analyze existing and potential challenges to sustainable development of China s industries How did the industries respond to climate change and the development of a low carbon economy in China What measures have been taken by these industries to reduce greenhouse gas GHG emission and reduce overall energy consumption What are the latest developments in China s industrial sector in terms of technological progress and upgrading What are the potential challenges facing the industrial sector in the post economic crisis era This study intends to address these issues

Living Architecture Graeme Hopkins,Christine Goodwin,2011-05-16 Extensively illustrated with photographs and drawings Living Architecture highlights the most exciting green roof and living wall projects in Australia and New Zealand within an international context Cities around the world are becoming denser with greater built form resulting in more hard surfaces and less green space leaving little room for vegetation or habitat One way of creating more natural environments within cities is to incorporate green roofs and walls in new buildings or to retrofit them in existing structures This practice has long been established in Europe and elsewhere and now Australia and New Zealand have begun to embrace it The installation of green roofs and walls has many benefits including the management of stormwater and improved water quality by retaining and filtering rainwater through the plants soil and root uptake zone reducing the urban heat island effect in cities increasing real estate values around green roofs and reducing energy consumption within the interior space by shading insulation and reducing noise level from outside and providing biodiversity opportunities via a vertical link between the roof and the ground This book will appeal to a wide range of readers from students and practitioners of architecture landscape architecture urban planning and ecology through to members of the community interested in how they can more effectively use the rooftops and walls of their homes or workplaces to increase green open space in the urban environment

Solar Energy Update ,1982 Third World Modernism Duanfang Lu,2010-11-02 This set of essays challenge interpretations of the development of modernist architecture in Third World countries during the Cold War The topics look at modernism s part in the transnational development of building technologies and the construction of national and cultural identity
