Urban Planning And The African American Community In The Shadows:

Urban Planning and the African-American Community June Manning Thomas, Marsha Ritzdorf, 1996-12-10 Clarifying the historical connections between the African American population in the United States and the urban planning profession this book suggests means by which cooperation and justice may be increased Chapters examine the racial origins of zoning in US cities how Eurocentric family models have shaped planning processes of cities such as Los Angeles and diversifying planning education in order to advance the profession There is also a chapter of excerpts from court cases and government reports that have shaped or reflected the racial aspects of urban planning

Urban Planning and the African-American Community June Manning Thomas, Marsha Ritzdorf, 1997 How have urban planning policies contributed to racial injustices in American cities Does contemporary urban planning really address and attempt to solve the social and economic problems of African Americans in cities or does it just perpetuate ghetto conditions What have African Americans done to confront injustices in planning Historically race and city design are linked and Urban Planning and the African American Community aims to clarify the historical connections between the African American population and the urban planning profession and to suggest means by which cooperation and justice may be increased The book focuses on the areas of zoning and real estate planning and public policy African American initiatives and responses to urban planning and urban planning education Individual chapters examine the racial origins of zoning in American cities how Eurocentric family models have shaped planning policies applied to African American families the rise of equity planning and its effects the role of race and empowerment in the Model Cities experiment African American experiences with shaping the planning of such cities as Los Angeles Greensboro and Birmingham and provides a plan for diversifying planning education in order to advance the profession The editors also include a chapter of excerpts from important court cases and government reports that have shaped or reflected the racial aspects of urban planning This important new volume bridges the gap between urban planning and issues of race and will be an essential resource for academics and students in urban studies urban planning and race ethnic studies

Black America in the Shadow of the Sixties Clarence Lang, 2015-03-16 A spirited argument for moving beyond the legacy of the Civil Rights era to best understand the current situation of African Americans

Territorial Governance and Spatial Transformation in Post-apartheid South Africa Daniel du Plessis, 2025-07-05 The book provides a reflective account of the evolution of the territorial governance structures and processes in South Africa over a period of 30 years after the transition to a post apartheid society in 1994 It also considers the role and influence of these changing governance institutions and processes and their associated outputs in the form of policies and plans on several priority dimensions of urban spatial transformation The synthesis of the experiences and lessons learnt provides the bases for contemplating important future focus areas for territorial governance such as spatial transformation towards smart cities an African perspective for future South African cities and transitioning towards a streamlined integrated territorial governance system

The lessons and experiences are not only of local significance in South Africa but also globally in countries and regions faced with territorial governance and spatial transformation challenges

Redesigning The American Dream Revised And Updated Dolores Hayden, 2002-09-03 In a provocative critique of American housing patterns that perpetuate Victorian stereotypes of the home as woman's place and the city as man's world urban historian and architect Dolores Hayden tallies the personal and social costs that an architecture of gender creates for the two earner family the single parent family and single people She traces three models of home in historical perspective to document innovative alternatives for reconstructing neighborhoods

Cosmopolis II Leonie Sandercock, Peter Lyssiotis, 2003-12-01 The 21st century will be the century of multicultural cities of the struggle for equality and diversity and the struggle against fundamentalism Cosmopolis II presents a truly global tour of contemporary cities from Birmingham to Rotterdam Frankfurt to Berlin Sydney to Vancouver and Chicago to East St Louis Passionately written and superbly illustrated with a range of specially commissioned images Cosmopolis II is a visionary book of our urban future

Good Parents, Better Homes, and Great Schools Karen Benjamin, 2025-07-15 Good Parents Better Homes and Great Schools examines how white residential developers planning consultants and their allies in government strategically replaced block level segregation with segregation at the neighborhood level in New South cities such as Atlanta Baltimore Birmingham Houston Raleigh and Winston Salem Going beyond the well known Home Owners Loan Corporation maps of the 1930s Karen Benjamin traces segregation tactics back to the late nineteenth century when this public private partnership laid the groundwork for the nationwide segregation strategies codified by the New Deal This book links the tactics of residential and school segregation to prevailing middle class ideas about what constitutes good parenting ensuring the longevity of both practices By focusing on efforts that specifically targeted parents Benjamin not only adds a new dimension to the history of residential segregation but also helps explain why that legacy has been so difficult to undo

Building a Black Criminology, Volume 24 James D. Unnever, Shaun L. Gabbidon, Cecilia Chouhy, 2018-10-26 In light of the Black Lives Matter movement and protests in many cities race plays an ever more salient role in crime and justice Within theoretical criminology however race has oddly remained on the periphery It is often introduced as a control variable in tests of theories and is rarely incorporated as a central construct in mainstream paradigms e.g. control social learning and strain theories When race is discussed the standard approach is to embrace the racial invariance thesis which argues that any racial differences in crime are due to African Americans being exposed to the same criminogenic risk factors as are Whites just more of them An alternative perspective has emerged that seeks to identify the unique racially specific conditions that only Blacks experience Within the United States these conditions are rooted in the historical racial oppression experienced by African Americans whose contemporary legacy includes concentrated disadvantage in segregated communities racial socialization by parents experiences with and perceptions of racial discrimination and disproportionate involvement in and unjust treatment by the criminal justice system Importantly racial invariance and race specificity are not mutually exclusive perspectives Evidence exists that Blacks and Whites commit crimes for both the same reasons invariance and for different reasons race specific A full understanding of race and crime thus must involve demarcating both the general and specific causes of crime the latter embedded in what it means to be Black in the United States This volume seeks to explore these theoretical issues in a depth and breadth that is not common under one cover Again given the salience of race and crime this volume should be of interest to a wide range of criminologists and have the potential to be used in graduate seminars and upper level undergraduate courses Questioning Architectural Judgment Steven A. Moore, Barbara B. Wilson, 2013-07-24 The book shines light on the problem of judgment particularly in the realm of architectural technics and the codes that regulate it The struggle to define sustainability and thus judge architecture through such lenses is but one dimension of the contemporary problem of judgment By providing the reader with an inherently interdisciplinary study of a particular discipline architecture it brings to the topic lenses that challenge the too frequently unexamined assumptions of the discipline By situating architecture within a broader cultural field and using case studies to dissect the issues discussed the book emphasizes that it is not simply a matter of designing better more efficient or more stringent codes to guide place making but a matter of reconstructing the boundaries of the systems to be coded The authors are winners of the EDRA Place Research Award 2014 for their work on the Green Alley Demonstration Project used in the book Desegregating the City David P. Varady, 2012-02-01 Desegregating the City takes a global multidisciplinary look at segregation and the strengths and weaknesses of different antisegregation strategies in the United States and other developed countries In contrast to previous works focusing exclusively on racial ghettos products of coercion this book also discusses ethnic enclaves products of choice in cities like Belfast Toronto Amsterdam and New York Since 9 11 the ghetto enclave distinction has become blurred as crime and disorder have emanated from both European immigrant ethnic enclaves and America s ghettos The contributors offer a variety of tools for addressing the problems of racial and income segregation including school integration area based fair share housing requirements place based mixed income housing development and expanded demand side residential subsidy options such as housing vouchers By exploring these alternatives and their consequences Desegregating the City provides the basis for a combination of flexible antisegregation strategies
