Weather And Climate Iscience:

I-science I' 2006 Ed. , The Change in the Weather William Kenneth Stevens,2001 Explains the unusual weather of the past few years in the context of a broader escalation of climatic extremes tracing the impact of climate on human societies Earth Science and Applications from Space National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Space Studies Board,Committee on the Assessment of NASA's Earth Science Program,2012-09-03 Understanding the effects of natural and human induced changes on the global environment and their implications requires a foundation of integrated observations of land sea air and space on which to build credible information products forecast models and other tools for making informed decisions The 2007 National Research Council report on decadal survey called for a renewal of the national commitment to a program of Earth observations in which attention to securing practical benefits for humankind plays an equal role with the quest to acquire new knowledge about the Earth system NASA responded favorably and aggressively to this survey embracing its overall recommendations for Earth observations missions technology investments and priorities for the underlying science As a result the science and applications communities have made significant progress over the past 5 years However the Committee on Assessment of NASA s Earth Science Program found that the survey vision is being realized at a far slower pace than was recommended principally because the required budget was not achieved Exacerbating the budget shortfalls NASA Earth science programs experienced launch failures and delays and the cost of implementing missions increased substantially as a result of changes in mission scope increases in launch vehicle costs and or the lack of availability of a medium class launch vehicle under estimation of costs by the decadal survey and unfunded programmatic changes that were required by Congress and the Office of Management and Budget In addition the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration NOAA has made significant reductions in scope to its future Earth environmental observing satellites as it contends with budget shortfalls Earth Science and Applications from Space A Midterm Assessment of NASA s Implementation of the Decadal Survey recommends a number of steps to better manage existing programs and to implement future programs that will be recommended by the next decadal survey The report also highlights the urgent need for the Executive Branch to develop and implement an overarching multiagency national strategy for Earth observations from space a key recommendation of the 2007 decadal survey that remains unfulfilled I-science i Tm' 2006 Ed. ,

Assessment of Impediments to Interagency Collaboration on Space and Earth Science Missions National Research Council,Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences,Space Studies Board,Committee on Assessment of Impediments to Interagency Cooperation on Space and Earth Science Missions,2011-05-31 Through an examination of case studies agency briefings and existing reports and drawing on personal knowledge and direct experience the Committee on Assessment of Impediments to Interagency Cooperation on Space and Earth Science Missions found that candidate projects for multiagency collaboration in the development and implementation of Earth observing or space science missions are often intrinsically complex and therefore costly and that a multiagency approach to developing these missions typically results in additional complexity and cost. Advocates of collaboration have sometimes underestimated the difficulties and associated costs and risks of dividing responsibility and accountability between two or more partners; they also discount the possibility that collaboration will increase the risk in meeting performance objectives. This committee's principal recommendation is that agencies should conduct Earth and space science projects independently unless it is judged that cooperation will result in significant added scientific value to the project over what could be achieved by a single agency alone or Unique capabilities reside within one agency that are necessary for the mission success of a project managed by another agency or The project is intended to transfer from research to operations necessitating a change in responsibility from one agency to another during the project or There are other compelling reasons to pursue collaboration for example a desire to build capacity at one of the cooperating agencies. Even when the total project cost may increase parties may still find collaboration attractive if their share of a mission is more affordable than funding it alone. In these cases alternatives to interdependent reliance on another government agency should be considered. For example agencies may find that buying services from another agency or pursuing interagency coordination of spaceflight data collection is preferable to fully interdependent cooperation.

Assessment of Mission Size Trade-offs for NASA's Earth and Space Science Missions National Research Council, Commission on Physical Sciences, Mathematics, and Applications, Space Studies Board, Ad Hoc Committee on the Assessment of Mission Size Trade-offs for Earth and Space Science Missions, 2000-08-31. Assessment of Mission Size Trade-offs for NASA's Earth and Space Science Missions addresses fundamental issues of mission architecture in the nation's scientific space program and responds to the FY99 Senate conference report which requested that NASA commission a study to assess the strengths and weaknesses of small medium and large missions. This report evaluates the general strengths and weaknesses of small medium and large missions in terms of their potential scientific productivity responsiveness to evolving opportunities ability to take advantage of technological progress and other factors that may be identified during the study identifies which elements of the SSB and NASA science strategies will require medium or large missions to accomplish high priority science objectives and recommends general principles or criteria for evaluating the mix of mission sizes in Earth and space science programs. Assessment of Mission Size Trade-offs for NASA's Earth and Space Science Missions considers not only scientific technological and cost trade-offs but also institutional and structural issues pertaining to the vigor of the research community government industry university partnerships graduate student training and the like.
