ANDREWS, 2018 The War-Time Journal of a Georgia Girl, 1864-1865 Eliza Frances Andrews, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1908 edition Excerpt CHAPTER VI FORES H ADO WINGS OF THE RACE PROBLEM June 1 July 16 1865 Explanatory Note I would gladly have left out the family dissensions about politics with which this and the preceding chapter abound could it have been done consistently with faithfulness to the original narrative which I have sought to maintain in giving to the public this contemporary record of the war time It is due to my father s memory however to say that his devotion to the Union was not owing to any want of sympathy with his own section but to his belief that the interests of the South would be best served by remaining under the old flag No man was ever in more hearty accord with our civilization and institutions than he The question with him was not whether these ought to be preserved but by what means their safety could best be assured His judgment told him that secession must inevitably be a failure in any case Even could we have held our own in the face of the overwhelming odds against us and established our independence he believed that the disintegrating forces of inter state jealousies and the intrigues of self seeking politicians would soon have dissolved the bonds of a loosely organized confederation based on the right of secession and left us in the end broken and divided at the mercy of our powerful centralized neighbor I think too his common sense told him that slavery was bound to go sooner or later and if emancipation must come it would be better that it should take place peacefully and by carefully prearranged steps than with the violence and unreason which he foresaw were sure to follow in case of war He was a large slaveholder himself and honestly believed like most of his class that a condition of mild servitude The War Time Journal of a Georgia Girl 1864 to 1865 Eliza Frances Andrews, 2014-03 This Is A New Release Of The Original 1908 Edition The War-Time Journal of a Georgia Girl, 1864-1865 - Scholar's Choice Edition Eliza Frances Andrews, 2015-02-12 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the
