to Woking to return the cart when in the early morning hours a violent thunderstorm erupts On the road during the height of the storm he has his first terrifying sight of a fast moving Martian fighting machine in a panic he crashes the horse cart barely escaping detection He discovers the Martians have assembled towering three legged fighting machines tripods each armed with a heat ray and a chemical weapon the poisonous black smoke These tripods have wiped out the army units positioned around the cylinder and attacked and destroyed most of Woking Sheltering in his house the narrator sees a fleeing artilleryman moving through his garden who later tells the narrator of his experiences and mentions that another cylinder has landed between Woking and Leatherhead cutting off the narrator from his wife The two try to escape via Byfleet just after dawn but are separated at the Shepperton to Weybridge Ferry during a Martian afternoon attack on Shepperton One of the Martian fighting machines is brought down in the River Thames by artillery as the narrator and countless others try to cross the river into Middlesex as the Martians retreat back to their original crater This gives the authorities precious hours to form a defence line covering London After the Martians temporary repulse the narrator is able to float down the Thames in a boat toward London stopping at Walton where he first encounters the curate his companion for the coming weeks Herbert George Wells 21 September 1866 13 August 1946 usually referred to as H G Wells was an English writer He was prolific in many genres writing dozens of novels short stories and works of social commentary satire biography and autobiography including even two books on war games
