Learning in Sports Coaching Lee Nelson, Ryan Groom, Paul Potrac, 2016-03-31 The facilitation of learning is a central feature of coaches and coach educators work. Coaching students and practitioners are, as a result, being expected to give increasing levels of thought towards how they might help to develop the knowledge and practical skills of others. Learning in Sports Coaching provides a comprehensive introduction to a diverse range of classic critical and contemporary theories of learning, education and social interaction and their potential application to sports coaching. Each chapter is broadly divided into two sections. The first section introduces a key thinker and the fundamental tenets of his or her scholarly endeavours and theorising. The second considers how the theorist's work might influence how we understand and attempt to promote learning in coaching and coach education settings. By design, this book seeks to promote theoretical connoisseurship and to encourage its readers to reflect critically on their beliefs about learning and its facilitation. This is an essential text for any pedagogical course taken as part of a degree programme in sports coaching or coach education. Transformational Coaching for Effective Leadership Behnam Bakhshandeh, William J. Rothwell, Sohel M. Imroz, 2023-03-17 The purpose of this book is to introduce the concept of transformational coaching and to educate professional business coaches or managers as coaches in their organizations on the influential and relevant elements of Transformational Coaching for Effective Leadership designed for coaching individuals, teams and businesses or applying such elements in any level of organization development intervention either toward individuals, teams, groups, departments or the organization itself. Given the power and long-lasting influence of transformational coaching, it also could be beneficial to professionals in the fields of human resource development, HRD, workplace learning and performance, WLP, human performance enhancement, HPE and overall in the domain of workforce education and development, WFED. This book will start by reviewing the background and presence of transformational coaching in businesses and organizations along with the general concepts, perceptions and understanding of coaching. This book will examine the uses of transformational coaching in management and leadership development, human resource development for talent development and retention and for developing managerial coaching skills and competencies. Additionally, this book will review the presence and use of transformational coaching concepts, theories and practices including transformational learning for human resources, HR and HRD professionals to influence a workforce's attitude, behavior and productivity. Features: Builds individuals' self-awareness, self-realization and self-confidence. Offers personal and professional development. Teaches the concept of transformational learning and its use in transformational coaching. Teaches rituals, skills and strategies for individuals and teams to increase their productivity. Offers an approach to building healthy and strong relationships with oneself and others. Includes change management strategies for redirecting poor job performance. Helps readers implement effective transformational coaching practices by offering many tools such as forms, checklists and worksheets. Sport Coach Learning and Professional Development Bob Muir, John Lyle, 2024-08-02 Sport Coach Learning and Professional Development describes the genesis and theoretical foundations of an emerging workflow.

for supporting sport coaches learning and professional development in performance and high performance sport It is the clear exposition and critical insight into coaches learning and professional development and of coaching practice that provides the foundations for an Embedded Relational and Emergent Coach Learning and Professional Development Strategy Learning and development is not something that can be done to people rather it is about working alongside supporting experienced coaches to identify and resolve meaningful questions that generate personal and professional growth This approach more appropriately attends to individual differences in biographies perspectives roles and socio cultural settings Whilst the focus and nature of support shifts to reflect the goals that coaches and athletes are working towards relative to the changing demands of their context the approach consistently centres around three overlapping themes 1 Supporting coaches to learn through and from their everyday experiences 2 Supporting coaches to reflect on and explore the nature of the experiences they create for others 3 Supporting coaches by being available listening offering reassurance support and caring Working through this process necessitates close cooperation and frequently incorporates reflective dialogue collaborative planning and shared enquiry The work is therefore both relational and developmental Coach and coach developer both bring something to the working relationship which in turn shapes and influences the nature of the work undertaken The nature of the goals pursued the strategies employed and the collective courses of action taken are always shaped and influenced by the interpersonal resources that emerge through the work together the overlap The application and effective deployment of the strategy is illustrated and illuminated in a series of case studies These demonstrate not only the efficacy of the strategy but also the lessons learned from working with coaches in their embedded contexts This book is a key resource for coaches coach developers students and researchers working in the overlapping fields of sport coaching learning and professional development
