Young People's Quality of Life and Construction of Citizenship Graciela Tonon, 2012-01-05 The study of quality of life refers to the material environment social welfare and psychosocial environment wellbeing It has been defined as a concept that implies the objective and subjective dimension that Cummins 1997 first studied in seven domains The use of domains in the quality of life study allows a more precise measurement than the one that could have been reached through simple questions since psychometric scales are used and if the addition of domains is equivalent to the totality of life satisfaction then the group of domains is a valid measure of quality of life In the case of young people it has been observed that even if they live in negative physical social and contextual conditions they can nevertheless experience a relatively positive experience in relation to their quality of life depending on the strategies and capabilities that they generate in relation to the context Similarly young people that live in favorable socioeconomic conditions and with a trouble free psychological situation may experience a relatively poor evaluation of their position in life Patrick et al oung people do not form a homogenous group and in this sense it is not possible to generalize about youth they interact with the environment in which they live and they are a product of the history they happen to live in this way they transit different vital scenarios in daily life that affect their quality of life The social representations about youth that each population has in each historical moment are embedded in the social context in which young people live and develop conditioning every day life and or creating related stereotypes The concept of youth is a social construction built conjointly by all members of society in the historical moment in which they live Young people interact with the environment in which they live and they are a product of the history they happen to live Authors like Urresti 1999 define youth from a point of view that takes into account the living together of different generations in different societies thus being impossible to compare young people of today with those of two or three decades ago in addition he states that it is necessary to situate the understanding of youth within the historical and social moment in which they live Nowadays the predominant adult model is based in individualism and even if an intergenerational dialogue is necessary it is difficult for young people to achieve this kind of communication with adults that in some cases are living stages of youth or that need to be forever young Young people live in uncertainty with a limited perspective for future action assigning their own meaning to events and facts according to their fundamental concerns that are significantly different from those of their parents generation In the other side the process of globalization and the protagonist social role of the new informational and communicational technologies produce that the possibilities to expand individual freedoms increase but not all young people can manage with it Lechner 2002 What young people need in order to construct their citizenship and feel satisfied varies according to the different societies especially considering that most of them live a fragile situation As Cortina 2003 7 9 states the idea of citizenship always transcends individualism because the citizen is somebody that exists together with others and those others are equal to him before the city is somebody that deliberates with others that acts with others conjointly that assumes the protagonist role of his own life in this way citizen is not only that who the law protects but that who participates in the public issues Speaking about young people we propose to recognize them from their equal dignity because recognition is not only a courtesy that we owe others it is an essential human need Taylor 1993 46 This recognition is based in human dignity and tends to protect the basic rights of people as individuals and to recognize the particular needs of people as members of specific cultural groups Gutman 1993 20 This brief book is dedicated to analyze the relations between quality of life and construction of citizenship of young people in Argentina considering two specific social scenarios the community and the university In the case of community it is important to note that it not imply uniformity as community means the inclusion of diversity and the achievement of sharing within it and in the case of university it will be necessary to recognize that as an educational institution the university has expanded his traditional role of production of knowledge to be an institution of social reference and social support for students To do this the author will show some of the results of a decade of research in quality of life and young people using quantitative and qualitative methods Advances in Design and Digital Communication IV Nuno Martins, Daniel Brandão, 2023-11-30 This book reports on research findings and practical lessons featuring advances in the areas of digital and interaction design graphic design and branding design education society and communication in design practice and related ones Gathering the proceedings of the 7th International Conference on Digital Design and Communication Digicom 2023 held on November 9 11 2023 as a hybrid event in from Barcelos Portugal this book continues the tradition of the previous ones reporting on new design strategies to foster digital communication within and between the society institutions and brands By highlighting innovative ideas and reporting on multidisciplinary projects it offers a source of inspiration for designers of all kinds including graphic and web designers UI UX and social media designers and to researchers advertisers artists and brand and corporate communication managers alike The Routledge Companion to Gender, Media and Violence Karen Boyle, Susan Berridge, 2023-08-25 With the heated discussion around MeToo journalistic reporting on domestic abuse and the Knowledge is a form of familiarity awareness understanding or acquaintance It often involves the possession of information learned through experience and can be understood as a cognitive success or an epistemic contact with reality like making a discovery Knowledge is often understood as a state of an individual person but it can also refer to a characteristic of a group of people as group knowledge social knowledge or collective knowledge Some social sciences understand knowledge as a broad social phenomenon that is similar to culture Knowledge is closely related to intelligence but intelligence is more about the ability to acquire process and apply information while knowledge concerns information and skills that a person already possess Knowledge can be produced in many ways The main source of empirical knowledge is perception which involves the usage of the senses to learn about the external world Introspection allows people to learn about their internal mental states and processes Other sources of knowledge include memory rational intuition inference and testimony According to foundationalism some of these sources are basic in that they can justify beliefs without depending on other mental states Coherentists reject this claim and contend that a sufficient degree of coherence among all the mental states of the believer is necessary for knowledge According to infinitism an infinite chain of beliefs is needed The Bloomsbury Handbook of Method in Comparative and International Education Matthew A.
