Trauma and Transformation Richard G. Tedeschi, Lawrence G. Calhoun, 1995-06-20 There are a growing number of books on the market focusing on the history symptomatology and treatment of trauma and PTSD This book provides something unique as its purpose is to highlight the personal positive growth or strengthening that often occurs in persons who have faced traumatic events As the book points out this is a sadly neglected area in terms of research This book has something to offer to the layperson and those who have experienced a traumatic event as well as to the seasoned professional It is written in an easily accessible style and given the price of books these days is also a good value for the money Gladeana McMahon in British Psychological Society Counseling Psychology Review This is a useful book especially for those involved with research on this important issue James Graves M D in Readings A Journal of Reviews and Commentary in Mental Health Unique in focusing on the positive outcomes of coping with crisis this volume helps you to understand the process of growth after trauma and apply that knowledge to the counseling relationship Sensitizing the reader to the pain experienced by people affected by trauma the authors weave together literature from philosophy religion and psychology to form a model of active coping and transformation An essentially cognitive framework gives conceptual context to the important changes in trauma survivors belief systems that the authors examine and upon which they build Case examples and quotations from literary and religious sources as well as from the authors research and clinical work articulate the coping and growth process and cultivate compassion and understanding At the same time the authors findings and analysis of important research encourage researchers to more closely examine this type of personal growth This volume provides new information and perspectives invaluable to all those in the helping professions in a variety of counseling settings as well as researchers and students in clinical psychology psychology nursing interpersonal violence and family studies At last someone has assembled and integrated the extensive literature on coping with trauma The authors provide a thoughtful and creative analysis of the process by which survivors of trauma experience personal growth They propose their own model of coping that incorporates a wide range of personality variables coping strategies tasks cognitive processes and social support Chockfull of engaging case examples and suggestions for researchers and therapists this is a must read for anyone interested in the human dimensions of surviving trauma
