The Oxford Guide for Writing Tutors Melissa Ianetta, Lauren Fitzgerald, 2016 The Oxford Guide for Writing Tutors introduces two conversations to the tutor's preparation one about the creation of knowledge in writing programs the other about tutor research This approach to tutor training provides several benefits First it allows tutors to test their theories of what might work in a writing center session and helps them to move professional conversation towards why such things happen They bridge the theory practice divide that often frustrates both novices and experienced tutors By conducting research to answer such questions tutors can help themselves the writers with whom they work their fellow tutors and the writers with whom they work And further this approach gives the reader new methods for appreciating and critiquing scholarly work making it easier to understand the best ways to help writers and to move the field forward As writing tutoring programs take on a variety of forms and pursue a range of missions this book aims to create a flexible text whose contents can be easily rearranged to support a broad spectrum of reader needs Each chapter accordingly can be read independently the text does not rely on a sequential reading to create meaning The book also includes intra textual and extra textual references for the reader who wants to inquire further That is throughout the book are references to material in other chapters that might be of interest to the reader intrigued by the topic at hand So too in each chapter we include references to and citations of the scholarship that supports much of the common knowledge of the field including in the Handbook both previous tutor education textbooks and research from the field The aim is to aid the interested reader's inquiry into the scholarship of the field as well as to ground advice about practice in research that testifies to the effectiveness a range of tutoring practices Much of the scholarship cited throughout the book is authored by undergraduate tutor researchers as well as several former tutors who were graduate students when they published their articles This crucial aspect best models the ways in which tutors themselves can bring together practice and research in their day to day work and in their informed thinking about this work Including tutor voices is an important tradition of the tutor education textbook because these are voices that speak to the issues concerning tutors in a range of institutions and programs across the country

Everyday Writing Center Anne Ellen Geller, Michele Eodice, Frankie Condon, Meg Carroll, Elizabeth Boquet, 2007-04-15 In a landmark collaboration five co authors develop a theme of ordinary disruptions the everyday as a source of provocative learning moments that can liberate both student writers and writing center staff At the same time the authors parlay Etienne Wenger's concept of community of practice into an ethos of a dynamic learner centered pedagogy that is especially well suited to the peculiar teaching situation of the writing center They push themselves and their field toward deeper more significant research more self conscious teaching Naming What We Know Linda

Adler-Kassner, Elizabeth Wardle, 2015-06-15 Naming What We Know examines the core principles of knowledge in the discipline of writing studies using the lens of threshold concepts concepts that are critical for epistemological participation in a discipline The first part of the book defines and describes thirty seven threshold concepts of the discipline in entries written by some of the field s most active researchers and teachers all of whom participated in a collaborative wiki discussion guided by the editors These entries are clear and accessible written for an audience of writing scholars students and colleagues in other disciplines and policy makers outside the academy Contributors describe the conceptual background of the field and the principles that run throughout practice whether in research teaching assessment or public work around writing Chapters in the second part of the book describe the benefits and challenges of using threshold concepts in specific sites first year writing programs WAC WID programs writing centers writing majors and for professional development to present this framework in action Naming What We Know opens a dialogue about the concepts that writing scholars and teachers agree are critical and about why those concepts should and do matter to people outside the field Create Your School Library

Writing Center Timothy Horan, 2016-10-16 Colleges typically have writing centers to which students can bring their writing assignments to a peer tutor for assistance but most high schools and middle schools do not This book advocates for the creation of writing centers in 7 12 schools and explains why the school library is the best place for the writing center There is a glaring absence of writing centers in today s K 12 schools More and more students are being asked in college entrance testing to submit samples of their writing and employers are expecting their workers to write correctly and clearly This book addresses the critical lack of writing centers below the undergraduate level It demonstrates how middle school and high school librarians can create writing centers in their school libraries explains how to assist students through a one on one writing tutorial method and gives students and teachers the tools for learning and understanding the complex art of writing Author Timothy Horan inventor of the School Library Writing Center establishes why school libraries represent the best and most logical places to create writing centers and why school librarians are the natural choice to direct writing center operations He then takes readers through the process of creating a writing center from original conception up through opening day Additional topics covered include how to publicize and grow your School Library Writing Center maintaining your writing center for efficient operation on a daily basis as well as for years to come how to become an effective writing center director and writing tutor the most current technology that can be used to assist in the writing composition and research process and working with English language learner ELL students within your writing center The Writing Center Director's Resource Book Christina Murphy, Byron Stay, 2012-11-12 The Writing Center Director s Resource Book has been developed to serve as a guide to writing center professionals in carrying out their various roles duties and responsibilities It is a resource for those whose jobs not only encompass a wide range of tasks but also require a broad knowledge of multiple issues. The volume provides information on the most significant areas of writing center work that writing center professionals both new and seasoned are likely to encounter. It is structured for use in diverse institutional settings providing both current knowledge as well as case studies of specific settings that represent the types of challenges and possible outcomes writing center professionals may experience. This blend of theory with actual practice provides a multi-dimensional view of writing center work. In the end, this book serves not only as a resource but also as a guide to future directions for the writing center which will continue to evolve in response to a myriad of new challenges that will lie ahead.

Writing Groups Inside and Outside the Classroom Beverly J. Moss, Nels P. Highberg, Melissa Nicolas, 2014-04-04. This edited volume explores the nature of writing groups inside and outside the academic environment. For writing instructors, writing center directors, scholars researching writing groups.

Around the Texts of Writing Center Work R. Mark Hall, 2017-05-01. Around the Texts of Writing Center Work reveals the conceptual frameworks found in and created by ordinary writing center documents. The values and beliefs underlying course syllabi, policy statements, website copy and comments, assessment plans, promotional flyers, and annual reports critically inform writing center practices, including the vital undertaking of tutor education. In each chapter, author R. Mark Hall focuses on a particular document. He examines its origins, its use by writing center instructors and tutors, and its engagement with enduring disciplinary challenges in the field of composition, such as tutoring and program assessment. He then analyzes each document in the contexts of the conceptual framework at the heart of its creation and everyday application: activity theory, communities of practice, discourse analysis, reflective practice, and inquiry-based learning. Around the Texts of Writing Center Work approaches the analysis of writing center documents with an inquiry stance, a call for curiosity and skepticism toward existing and proposed conceptual frameworks, in the hope that the theoretically conscious evaluation and revision of commonplace documents will lead to greater efficacy and more abundant research by writing center administrators and students.

Peripheral Visions for Writing Centers Jackie Grutsch McKinney, 2013-04-15. Peripheral Visions for Writing Centers aims to inspire a re-conception and re-envisioning of the boundaries of writing center work. Moving beyond the grand narrative of the writing center that it is a solely comfortable yet iconoclastic place where all students go to get one-on-one tutoring on their writing, Grutsch McKinney shines light on other representations of writing center work. Grutsch McKinney argues that this grand narrative neglects the extent to which writing center work is theoretically and pedagogically complex with ever-changing work and conditions and results in a straitjacket for writing center scholars, practitioners, students, and outsiders alike. Peripheral Visions for Writing Centers makes the case for a broader narrative of writing center work that recognizes and theorizes the various spaces of writing center labor, allows for professionalization of administrators, and sees tutoring as just one way to perform writing center work. Grutsch McKinney explores possibilities that lie outside the grand narrative, allowing scholars and practitioners to open the field to a fuller richer and more realistic representation of their material labor and intellectual work Student Writing Tutors in Their Own Words Max Orsini, Loren Kleinman, 2022-06-24 Student Writing Tutors in Their Own Words collects personal narratives from writing tutors around the world providing tutors faculty and writing center professionals with a diverse and experience based understanding of the writing support process Filling a major gap in the research on writing center theory first year writing pedagogy and higher education academic support resources this book provides narrative evidence of students own experiences with learning assistance discourse communities It features a variety of voices that address how academic support resources such as writing centers have served as the nucleus for students i e both tutors and their clients sense of community and self ultimately providing a space for freedom of discourse and expression It includes narratives from writing tutors supporting students in unconventional spaces such as prisons tutors offering support in war torn countries and students in international centers facing challenges of distance learning access and language barriers The essays in this collection reveal pedagogical takeaways and insights about both student and tutor collaborative experiences in writing center spaces These essays are a valuable resource for student writing tutors and anyone involved with them including composition instructors and scholars writing center professionals and any faculty or administrators involved with academic support programs
