Into the Darkest Places Marcus West,2018-11-13 This book explores the roots of borderline states of mind in early relational trauma and shows how it is possible and necessary to visit the darkest places in order to work through these traumas This is despite the fact that re-experiencing such traumas is unbearable for the patient and they naturally want to enlist the analyst in ensuring that they will never be experienced again This is the backdrop for the extreme pressures and roles that are constellated in the analysis that can lead to impasse or breakdown of the analytic relationship The author explores how these areas can be negotiated safely and that whilst drawing heavily on recent developments in attachment relational trauma and infant development theory an analytic attitude needs to be maintained in order to integrate these experiences and allow the individual to feel finally accepted and whole The book builds on Freud's views of repetition compulsion and re-enactment and develops Jung's concept of the traumatic complex
