

OPENING ARGUMENT

MR. BENJAMIN CURTIS

The CHIEF JUSTICE. The Managers of the House of Representatives state that the evidence on their part, with the exception first indicated, is closed. Gentlemen of counsel for the President, you will proceed with the defense.

Mr. CURTIS, of counsel for the respondent, rose and said: Mr. Chief Justice, I am here to speak to the Senate of the United States sitting in its judicial capacity as a court of impeachment, presided over by the Chief Justice of the United States, for the trial of the President of the United States. This statement sufficiently characterizes what I have to say. Here party spirit, political schemes, forgone conclusions, outrageous biases can have no fit operation. The Constitution requires that here should be a "trial," and as in that trial the oath which each one of you has taken is to administer "impartial justice according to the Constitution and the laws," the only appeal which I can make in behalf of the President is an appeal to the conscience and the reason of each judge who sits before me. Upon the law and the facts, upon the duties incumbent on that high officer by virtue of his office, and his honest endeavor to discharge those duties, the President rests his defense. And I pray each one of you listen to me with that patience which belongs to a judge for his own sake, which I cannot expect to command by any efforts of mine, while I open to you what that defense is . . .

Now, there is a question involved here which enters deeply, as I have already intimated, into the first eight articles in this series, and materially touches two of the others; and to that question I desire in the first place to invite the attention of the court. That question is, whether Mr. Stanton's case comes under the tenure-of-office act when applied to the facts of his case excludes it, then it will be found by honorable Senators when they come to examine this and the other articles that a mortal wound has been inflicted upon them by that decision . . .

"That the Secretaries of State & c., shall hold their offices respectively for and during the term of the President by whom they have been appointed."

The first inquiry which arises on this language is as to the meaning of the words "for and during the term of the President." Mr. Stanton, as appears by the commission which has been Opening and Closing Roger S. Haydock, John O. Sonsteng, 1994 Wearing the Robe James P. Gray, 2012-07-17 What do Hammurabi, Solomon and Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. have in common? They all presided as judges relying on a precise understanding of the law to mete out justice. Today's judges too have a significant opportunity to intelligently resolve disputes and artfully change lives, but they also face many other daily challenges. Unfortunately, there is no real handbook for a practicing judge or there wasn't until now. Written by Judge James P. Gray, Wearing the Robe explores the day-to-day realities of being a judge: from faithfully applying the law in court to sharing knowledge outside the courthouse. The author addresses a range of important topics, examining how judges can obtain and refine their skills, preside effectively over judicial calendars, healthfully manage the restrictions placed on their private lives, and more. Throughout, personal insights and practical tips add to the firm foundation of knowledge.
