The Contract of Employment Mark Freedland, Alan Bogg, David Cabrelli, Hugh Collins, Nicola Countouris, A. C. L. Davies, Simon Deakin, Jeremias Prassl, 2016-06-02 The contract of employment is the central legal institution of modern English employment law It provides the foundation upon which most statutory employment rights are constructed it provides a conduit for the implementation of norms negotiated in collective bargaining and it continues to provide a contractual structure for the terms and conditions of employment for a significant proportion of the working population The Contract of Employment provides the most ambitious and comprehensive treatise on the theoretical and doctrinal aspects of the English contract of employment in the common law world Under the general editorship of Professor Mark Freedland the text has been produced by a team of world leading experts in employment law Part I examines the theoretical context to the contract of employment studying its structure and development from a wide variety of theoretical and comparative perspectives Part

It provides an exposition and analysis of the doctrinal aspects of the contract of employment. The coverage of The Contract of Employment is unrivalled in its depth, detail and sophistication. The legal analysis is always informed by a keen sense of the modern labour market context of the contract of employment and it is sensitive to contemporary challenges such as precariousness, the interaction with migration law, the role of legislation in the contract of employment and the decline of collective bargaining. It will be the principal reference point for the practitioners, judges and academics concerned with the contract of employment as a legal category both nationally and internationally.

EU Collective Labour Law ter Haar, Beryl, Kun, Attila, 2021-12-09. This unique book offers a comprehensive systematization and overview of the EU's emerging acquis and practice of Collective Labour Law. Although the core aspects of Collective Labour Law lie outside the EU's competence to regulate the laws and industrial relations systems of Member States, are undoubtedly influenced by the EU and the involvement of Social Partners, i.e. representatives of employers and workers, is essential for many aspects of EU law and policy.

Trade, Labour and Sustainable Development Tonia Novitz, 2024-04-12. Examining the relationship between trade and labour regulation in light of the pressing need to promote sustainable development, Tonia Novitz interrogates how international legal architecture could be reformed so that no one in the world of work gets left behind. She highlights the dangers of pursuing labour and environmental issues on parallel tracks without recognising how they interact, ultimately arguing for the crafting of the content and application of trade rules through participatory processes which involve the inclusive representation of all sectors of the labour market and all parts of the world.

Human Rights Due Diligence and Labour Governance Ingrid Landau, 2023-10-30. Human rights due diligence (HRDD) has emerged as a dominant frame through which to conceptualise and operationalise responsible business conduct with respect to workers' rights in global supply chains. Legislation mandating HRDD is now found in several European countries and across various national regulatory agendas. Many scholars, practitioners and activists are actively calling for further legalisation, believing that this will broaden respect for human rights. Yet to date there has been little sustained scholarly analysis from a labour rights perspective. Observing that HRDD as originally articulated in the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights is open to multiple interpretations, this book examines global debates on the role and status of the concept. It also considers the implications of HRDD's ascension for transnational labour law as a distinct field of law scholarship and activism. Combining insights from transnational governance and business regulation with empirical analysis, this book argues that HRDD is not being institutionalised at either the global or national level in a way that renders it a transformative or even robust mechanism of transnational labour law. It also draws attention to the important but largely overlooked ways in which the rise of HRDD is leading to subtle shifts in the configuration of actors and institutions in labour governance.

Putting Human Rights to Work Philippa M. Collins, 2022. The Oxford Labour Law series has come to represent a significant contribution to the literature of British, European and international labour law. The series recognizes the arrival not only of a renewed interest in labour law generally but also the need for fresh approaches to the study of labour law following a period of momentous change in the UK and Europe The series is concerned with all aspects of labour law including traditional subjects of study such as collective labour law and individual employment law It also includes works that concentrate on the growing role of human rights and the combating of discrimination in employment and others that examine the law and economics of the labour market and the impact of social security law and of national and supranational employment policies upon patterns of employment and the employment contract Book jacket
