Doing History

Mark Donnelly, Claire Norton, 2020-11-16 Doing History bridges the gap between the way history is studied in school or as represented in the media and the way it is studied at university level. History as an academic discipline has dramatically changed in recent decades and has been enhanced by ideas from other disciplines, the influence of postmodernism and historians' incorporation of their own reflections into their work. Doing History presents the ideas and debates that shape how we do history today, covering arguments about the nature of historical knowledge and the function of historical writing, whether we can ever really know what happened in the past, what sources historians depend on and the relative value of popular and academic histories. This revised edition includes new chapters on public history and activist histories. It looks at global representations of the past across the centuries and provides up to date suggestions for further reading, presenting the reader with a thorough and current introduction to studying history at an academic level as well as a pathway to progress this study further. Clearly structured and accessibly written, it is an essential volume for all students embarking on the study of history.

The Built Environment Transformed Geoffrey Timmins, 2021-12-02 This book is concerned with the remarkable changes made to the built environment in Lancashire's main textile district, essentially the eastern and central parts of the county during the Industrial Revolution c1780-c1850. A case study approach is taken with findings from investigations at six different types of site being presented. The sites included are water-powered mill remains in the Cheesden Valley near Rochdale, Barrow Bridge factory village near Bolton, the former handloom weavers colony at Club Houses, Horwich, Preston's Winckley Square, Eanam Wharf at Blackburn and to the north of Bolton, the road between Bromley Cross and Edgworth. The case studies show how in rural and urban areas alike, developments in industry, housing and transport greatly extended the built environment and brought striking new features to it. Emphasis is placed on interpreting the physical evidence the sites provide, linking it with that taken from various types of documentary source, especially historical maps. By making comparisons with developments occurring at similar types of site elsewhere in Britain as well as in Europe and North America, the forms the changes took are explained and their significance assessed. Additionally, insights are provided into the economic and social impact the changes brought, especially on the everyday lives that people led.

Essential Skills for Historians J. Laurence Hare, Jack Wells, Bruce E. Baker, 2019-10-31 Essential Skills for Historians helps undergraduate students make the transition from general university study to a more in-depth study of history and to gain the skills and techniques they need to conduct an independent research project or embark on a career as a professional historian. The book begins with an examination of the historical discipline and its relevance to contemporary culture. It then guides readers through the steps of developing a research project using two sample projects that illustrate the connections between core proficiencies such as critical thinking and effective time management and professional proficiencies such as source criticism and historical interpretation. By following these source projects as they develop, the book also highlights the importance of sound historical practice and a critical understanding of the past in contemporary society. Finally, the book discusses the outcomes of historical research and reveals the wide array of possibilities for careers built upon the skills gained from studying history Covering key topics such as research strategies reading sources effective writing and professional ethics and with useful features such as glossaries guidelines for student projects hands on exercises further reading and a companion website containing extra resources Essential Skills for Historians equips aspiring historians with everything they need to succeed whilst also demonstrating the value of history in the wider world History in Practice
