longer a case of managing inertia but above all of creating a balance between what the public authorities can do and what they can facilitate. By adopting a spirit of co-operation the authorities can encourage the sharing of responsibilities, ideas, goods and values while opening up to mutual learning. Nevertheless this type of interaction is only possible if two conditions are met. Firstly institutions must show a clear desire to ensure unprecedented scope for dialogue with young people by ascribing a high value to the proposals that emerge from the contacts among and with young citizens. Secondly young people's interest in public affairs must be maintained in the long term by shoring up the online exchange with concrete evidence of legitimacy. This publication is intended to help meet these two conditions.
