Handbook on Trade and the Environment Kevin Gallagher, 2010-01-01 Handbook on Trade and the Environment is a good source for those looking for a better understanding of political issues of legal debates and of the state of discussion between government industry NGO and private sector groups on topics that are not often treated elsewhere Judith M Dean World Trade Review I would recommend the book to anyone concerned with the interaction of trade and the environment John Goodier Reference Reviews In this comprehensive reference work Kevin Gallagher has compiled a fresh and broad ranging collection of expert voices commenting on the interdisciplinary field of trade and the environment For over two decades policymakers and scholars have been struggling to understand the relationship between international trade in a globalizing world and its effects on the natural environment The authors in this Handbook provide the tools to do just that The editor's well worked introduction synthesizes the emerging themes of the collection which is divided into three sections trade and environmental quality trade and environmental politics and trade and environmental policy Topics include the extent to which trade liberalization creates pollution havens where dirty industries flock to poorer countries with lax environmental standards and conversely how multinational corporations bring cleaner environmental technologies to developing countries when they choose to move abroad The volume also addresses the extent to which national environmental policy and or global environmental agreements clash with the emerging rules of the World Trade Organization and whether such environmental policies hinder export competitiveness Finally numerous political economy analyses of the complex political coalitions that arise to adapt to and mitigate changes in trade and environmental policy are provided In addition to broader overviews of the field in depth case studies of nations and regions are offered including the United States the European Union China India and Mexico as well East Asia Latin America and Africa The volume will serve as a guide for scholars new to the field as well as students and policy makers needing a quick reference to the research on the interface between trade and the environment

Industrial Transformation in the Developing World Michael T. Rock, David P. Angel, 2005-10-06 Grow first clean up later environmental strategies in the developing economies of East Asia China Korea and Taiwan in Northeast Asia and Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore Thailand and Vietnam in Southeast Asia pose a critical regional and global sustainability challenge in this area of continuing rapid urban based industrial growth It is the most polluted region in the world Whilst being at the leading edge of the processes of urbanization industrialization and globalization these economies are in the midst not at the end of their urban industrial transformations During the next 25 years urban populations in the region are expected roughly to double and most of the industrial capital stock that will be on the ground by 2030 has not yet been built Given East Asia's growing size in the world's economy and ecology and its increasingly polluted environment this looming urban industrial transformation is both a challenge and an opportunity Unless steps are taken now to make this transformation more sustainable East Asia's and the world's environmental future is likely to deteriorate seriously Using detailed case studies and rigorous empirical analyses Rock and Angel leading experts in this field show that East Asian governments have found institutionally unique ways to overcome the sustainability challenge As a result of these findings they demonstrate how even low income economies in the rest of the world can use regulatory policies industrial policies and an openness to trade and foreign investment that will increase the competitiveness of their firms whilst improving their environmental performance thus proving an important antidote to those who argue that poor countries cannot afford to clean up their environment whilst their economies remain under developed
