This Fine Piece Of Water An Environmental History Of Long Island Sound:

This Fine Piece of Water Tom Andersen,2002-01-01 Long Island Sound is not only the most heavily used estuary in North America it is also one of the most beautiful waterways with picturesque seascapes and landfalls But centuries of pollution and other abuse have gradually been killing off its marine life and have pushed the Sound to the brink of disaster This fascinating book traces the history of the Sound and its use as a resource from the time of contact between the Native Americans and Dutch traders through the suburban sprawl of recent decades and tells how a group of scientists and citizens has been working to save the Sound from ruin Tom Andersen begins by describing the dramatic events of the summer of 1987 when a condition called hypoxia lack of dissolved oxygen in the water brought about by a combination of pollution and other factors killed large numbers of fish and lobsters in the Sound He discusses how scientists first documented and explained the development of hypoxia and how research and cleanup are now being carried out to restore the Sound Interweaving current events natural history and human history Andersen presents a cautionary tale of exploitation without concern for preservation A Field Guide to Long Island Sound Patrick J. Lynch,2017-01-01 Cover Half title Title Copyright Contents Acknowledgments Preface Regional map Introduction Physical coast Weather and water Human history Shallows Depths Beaches and dunes Rocky shores Salt marshes Coastal forests Connecticut locations New York locations Bibliography Illustration Credits Index A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T V W Y American Environmental History Carolyn Merchant,2007-10-31 By studying the many ways diverse peoples have changed shaped and conserved the natural world over time environmental historians provide insight into humanity s unique relationship with nature and more importantly are better able to understand the origins of our current environmental crisis Beginning with the precolonial land use practice of Native Americans and concluding with our twenty first century concerns over our global ecological crisis American Environmental History addresses contentious issues such as the preservation of the wilderness the expulsion of native peoples from national parks and population growth and considers the formative forces of gender race and class Entries address a range of topics from the impact of rice cultivation slavery and the growth of the automobile suburb to the effects of the Russian sea otter trade Columbia River salmon fisheries the environmental justice movement and globalization This illustrated reference is an essential companion for students interested in the ongoing transformation of the American landscape and the conflicts over its resources and conservation It makes rich use of the tools and resources climatic and geological data court records archaeological digs and the writings of naturalists that environmental historians rely on to conduct their research The volume also includes a compendium of significant people concepts events agencies and legislation and an extensive bibliography of critical films books and Web sites Long Island Sound James S. Latimer,Mark A. Tedesco,R. Lawrence Swanson,Charles Yarish,Paul E. Stacey,Corey Garza,2013-11-22 The U S Ocean Commission Report identified the need for regional ecosystem assessments to support coastal and ocean management These assessments must provide greater understanding of physical and biological dynamics than assessments at global and national scales can provide but transcend state and local interests This need and timeliness is apparent for Long Island Sound where a multi state regional restoration program is underway for America s most urbanized estuary Synthesis of the Long Island Sound ecosystem is needed to integrate knowledge across disciplines and provide insight into understanding and managing pressing issues such as non point sources of pollution coastal development global climatic change and invasive species Currently there is a need for a comprehensive volume that summarizes the ecological and environmental dynamics and status of Long Island Sound and its myriad ecosystems It has been 30 years since a comprehensive summary of Long Island Sound was prepared and 50 years since the pioneering work of Gordon Riley Major advances in estuarine science are providing new insights into these systems and yet the condition of many estuaries is in decline in the face of continuing coastal development There is an opportunity to lay a foundation for integrative coastal observing systems that truly provide the foundation for improved decision making This book will provide a key reference of our scientific understanding for work performed over the past three decades and guide future research and monitoring in a dynamic urbanized estuary American Mediterraneans Susan Gillman,2022-05-20 The story of the American Mediterranean both an idea and a shorthand popularized by geographers historians novelists and travel writers from the early nineteenth century to the 1970s The naturalist Alexander von Humboldt visiting the Gulf Caribbean in the early nineteenth century called it America s Mediterranean Almost a century later Southern California was hailed as Our Mediterranean Our Italy Although American Mediterranean is not a household phrase in the United States today it once circulated widely in French Spanish and English as a term of art and folk idiom In this book Susan Gillman asks what cultural work is done by this kind of unsystematic open ended comparative thinking American Mediterraneans tracks two centuries of this geohistorical concept from Humboldt in the early 1800s to writers of the 1890s reflecting on the Pacific world of the California coast to writers of the 1930s and 40s speculating on the political past and future of the Caribbean Following the term through its travels across disciplines and borders American Mediterraneans reveals a little known racialized history one that paradoxically appealed to a range of race neutral ideas and ideals New York Recentered Kara Murphy Schlichting,2019-04-23 The history of New York City s urban development often centers on titanic municipal figures like Robert Moses and on prominent inner Manhattan sites like Central Park New York Recentered boldly shifts the focus to the city s geographic edges the coastlines and waterways and to the small time unelected locals who quietly shaped the modern city Kara Murphy Schlichting details how the vernacular planning done by small businessmen and real estate operators performed independently of large scale governmental efforts refigured marginal locales like Flushing Meadows and the shores of Long Island Sound and the East River in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The result is a synthesis of planning history environmental history and urban history that recasts the story of New York as we know it Lake Ladoga Isaac Land,2023-06-16 Aimed at researchers students and all interested in history this multidisciplinary study offers a spectacular view of the history of Europe's largest lake Adopting the lens of coastal history this edited volume presents the development of the vast Great Lake's catchment area over a long time span from archaeological traces to Viking routes and from fishery huts to luxury villas of the power elite It reflects on people's sensory historical relationships with aquatic nature and considers the benefits and harms of power plants and factories to human communities and the environment The focus of the study is on the central and northern parts of the shores of Lake Ladoga which belonged to Finnish rule between 1812 and 1944 The multidisciplinary approach permits an unusually wide range of questions What has the Great Lake meant to local residents in cultural and emotional terms How should we conceptualize the extensive and diverse networks of activities that surrounded the lake What kind of Ladoga beaches did the Finns have to cede to the Soviet Union at the end of the war in 1944 How have Finns reminisced about their lost homelands How have the Russians transformed the profile of the region and what is the state of Ladoga's waters today The volume is the first overall presentation of Lake Ladoga which today is entirely part of Russia aimed at an international readership The rich source material of cross border research consists of both diverse archival material and chronicles folklore reminiscence and modern satellite images The history of Lake Ladoga helps readers to understand better the economic political and socio cultural characteristics of the cross border areas and the dynamics of the vulnerable border regions

City at the Water's Edge Betsy McCully, 2007 Concrete floors and concrete walls buildings that pierce the sky taxicabs and subway corridors a steady din of noise These things along with a virtually unrivaled collection of museums galleries performance venues media outlets international corporations and stock exchanges make New York City not only the cultural and financial capital of the United States but one of the largest and most impressive urban conglomerations in the world With distinctions like these is it possible to imagine the city as any more than this City at the Water's Edge invites readers to do just that Betsy McCully a long time urban dweller argues that this city of lights is much more than a human made metropolis It has a rich natural history that is every bit as fascinating as the glitzy veneer that has been built atop it Through twenty years of nature exploration McCully has come to know New York as part of the Lower Hudson Bioregion a place of salt marshes and estuaries sand dunes and barrier islands glacially sculpted ridges and kettle holes rivers and streams woodlands and outwash plains Here she tells the story of New York that began before the first humans settled in the region twelve thousand years ago and long before immigrants ever arrived at Ellis Island The timeline that she recounts is one that extends backward half a billion years it plumbs the depths of Manhattan's geological history and forecasts a possible future of global warming with rising seas lapping at the base of the Empire State Building Counter to popular views that see the city as a marvel of human ingenuity diametrically opposed to nature this unique account shows how the region has served as an evolving habitat for a diversity of species including our own The author chronicles the growth of the city at the expense of the environment but leaves the reader with a vision of a future city as a human habitat that is brought into balance with nature

Water David Soll, 2013-04-16 Supplying water to millions is not simply an engineering and logistical challenge As David Soll shows in his finely observed history of the nation's largest municipal water system the task of providing water to New Yorkers transformed the natural and built environment of the city its suburbs and distant rural watersheds Almost as soon as New York City completed its first municipal water system in 1842 it began to expand the network eventually reaching far into the Catskill Mountains more than one hundred miles from the city Empire of Water explores the history of New York City's water system from the late nineteenth century to the early twenty first century focusing on the geographical environmental and political repercussions of the city's search for more water Soll vividly recounts the profound environmental implications for both city and countryside Some of the region's most prominent landmarks such as the High Bridge across the Harlem River Central Park's Great Lawn and the Ashokan Reservoir in Ulster County have their origins in the city's water system By tracing the evolution of the city's water conservation efforts and watershed management regime Soll reveals the tremendous shifts in environmental practices and consciousness that occurred during the twentieth century Few episodes better capture the long standing upstate downstate divide in New York than the story of how mountain water came to flow from spigots in Brooklyn and Manhattan Soll concludes by focusing on the landmark watershed protection agreement signed in 1997 between the city watershed residents environmental organizations and the state and federal governments After decades of rancor between the city and Catskill residents the two sides set aside their differences to forge a new model of environmental stewardship His account of this unlikely environmental success story offers a behind the scenes perspective on the nation's most ambitious and wide ranging watershed protection program

The Nature of New York David Stradling, 2010 Stradling shows how New York's varied landscape and abundant natural resources have played a fundamental role in shaping the state's culture and economy
