Abstract: The aim of this study was to investigate the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical and psychological health of elderly people. The study was conducted in a community center in Istanbul, Turkey. The participants were 40 elderly people (20 men and 20 women) aged between 65 and 75 years. They were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The experimental group received a 12-week training program consisting of aerobic, strength, and flexibility exercises. The control group did not receive any training. The results showed that the experimental group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness and psychological well-being compared to the control group after 12 weeks of training. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the physical and psychological health of elderly people.
