House Document ,2014 Gender-Responsive Governance in Sierra Leone John Idriss Lahai,2023-07-28 This book investigates gender equality and women s empowerment in Sierra Leone focusing especially on women s interactions with the state and its development partners In particular it highlights women s increasing agency in acquiring knowledge diffusing power engaging in grassroots politics and compelling the government to adopt more gender responsive policies Exploiting extensive fieldwork and original multidisciplinary research methods including econometric and statistical models the book first sets out the history and impact of inequality in Sierra Leone and then goes on to shed light on the constructive and collaborative engagement of women and the state on a variety of local and external strategies for promoting gender equality Drawing throughout on insights from across gender studies sociology anthropology economics and political science the book highlights how women are succeeding in transforming marginality into agency in order to build a platform for influencing change By qualifying and quantifying the challenges of gender inequality in Sierra Leone and the progress that is being made this book provides important insights that will be relevant to other fragile post conflict states within Africa The book will be of interest to students and researchers studying women and gender studies African studies economics international development sociology and political science and international relations It will also deepen policymakers and practitioners understanding of women s diverse trajectories and experiences and how the typology of government affects the patterns of inequality and equality

The Grammar of Knowledge Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald, R. M. W. Dixon, 2014-02-28

The Grammar of Knowledge offers both a linguistic and anthropological perspective on the expression of information sources as well as inferences assumptions probability and possibility and gradations of doubt and beliefs in a range of languages The book investigates twelve different languages from families including Tibeto Burman Nakh Dagestani and Austronesian all of which share the property of requiring the source of information to be specified in every sentence In these languages it may not be possible to say merely that the man went fishing Instead the source of evidence for the statement must also be specified usually through the use of evidential markers For example it may be necessary to indicate whether the speaker saw the man go fishing has simply assumed that the man went fishing or was told that he went fishing by a third party Some languages such as Hinuq and Tatar distinguish between first hand and non first hand information sources others such as Ersu mark three distinct types of information directly required inferred or assumed and reported Some require an even greater level of specification Ash ninka Peren from South America has a specific marker to express suspicions or misgivings Like others in the series the book illustrates and examines these aspects of language in different cultural and linguistic settings It will interest linguists of all persuasions as well as linguistically minded anthropologists
