Windows and Words Aïda Hudson, Susan-Ann Cooper, 2003-08-13. This collection of essays confirms and celebrates the artistry of Canadian children's literature. Contributors include Janet Lunn and Tim Wynne Jones. Windows and Words is a collection of seventeen essays that confirms and celebrates the artistry of Canadian Children's Literature. There are essays that survey a wealth of English language fiction from the internationally acclaimed work of Lucy Maud Montgomery, the aboriginal adolescent novel to the increasingly multi-cultural character of children's books. Others examine book illustration, visual literacy, and the creative partnership seen in the picture book and its art design. With contributions by two Governor General's Award-winning authors, Janet Lunn and Tim Wynne Jones, and a final commentary by Elizabeth Waterson, the heart of this collection offers a unique perspective on the artistry of writing for children and claims a rightful place for Canadian children's literature as literature. Published in English.

The A to Z of Fantasy Literature Brian Stableford,2009-08-13 Once upon a time all literature was fantasy set in a mythical past when magic existed animals talked and the gods took an active hand in earthly affairs As the mythical past was displaced in Western estimation by the historical past and novelists became increasingly preoccupied with the present fantasy was temporarily marginalized until the late 20th century when it enjoyed a spectacular resurgence in every stratum of the literary marketplace Stableford provides an invaluable guide to this sequence of events and to the current state of the field The chronology tracks the evolution of fantasy from the origins of literature to the 21st century The introduction explains the nature of the impulses creating and shaping fantasy literature the problems of its definition and the reasons for its changing historical fortunes The dictionary includes cross referenced entries on more than 700 authors ranging across the entire historical spectrum while more than 200 other entries describe the fantasy subgenres key images in fantasy literature technical terms used in fantasy criticism and the intimately convoluted relationship between literary fantasies scholarly fantasies and lifestyle fantasies The book concludes with an extensive bibliography that ranges from general textbooks and specialized accounts of the history and scholarship of fantasy literature through bibliographies and accounts of the fantasy Critical Multicultural Analysis of Children's Literature Maria José Botelho, Masha Kabakow Rudman, 2009-05-07 Children's literature is a contested terrain, as is multicultural education. Taken together, they pose a formidable challenge to both classroom teachers and academics. Rather than deny the inherent conflicts and tensions in the field, in Critical Multicultural Analysis of Children's Literature: Mirrors, Windows, and Doors, Maria José Botelho and Masha Kabakow Rudman confront, deconstruct, and reconstruct these terrains by proposing a reframing of the field. Surely, all of us, children, teachers, and academics, can benefit from this more expansive understanding of what it means to read books. Sonia Nieto, "From the Foreword." Critical multicultural analysis provides a philosophical shift for teaching literature, constructing curriculum, and taking up issues of diversity and social justice. It problematizes children's literature, offers a way of reading power, explores the complex web of sociopolitical relations, and deconstructs taken-for-granted assumptions about language, meaning, reading, and literature. It is literary study as sociopolitical change. Bringing a critical lens to the study of multiculturalism in children's literature, this book prepares teachers, teacher educators, and researchers of children's literature to analyze the ideological dimensions of reading and studying literature. Each chapter includes recommendations for classroom application, classroom research, and further reading. Helpful end-of-book appendixes include a list of children's book awards, lists of publishers, diagrams of the power continuum, and the theoretical framework of critical multicultural analysis, and lists of selected children's literature journals and online resources.

Framed Time Garrett Stewart, 2008-09-15 Italian director Michelangelo Antonioni claimed three decades ago that different conceptions of time helped define the split in film between European humanism and American science fiction And as Garrett Stewart argues here this transatlantic division has persisted since cinema's 1995 centenary made more complex by the digital technology that has detached movies from their dependence on the sequential frames of the celluloid strip Brilliantly interpreting dozens of recent films from Being John Malkovich, Donnie Darko and The Sixth Sense to La mala educaci n and Cach Stewart investigates how their treatments of time reflect the change in media from film's original rolling reel to today's digital pixel He goes on to show with 140 stills how American and European narratives confront this shift differently while Hollywood movies tend to revolve around ghostly afterlives, psychotic doubles or violent time travel their European counterparts more often feature second sight, erotic telepathy or spectral memory Stewart questions why these recent plots in exploring temporality gravitate toward either supernatural or uncanny apparitions rather than themes of digital simulation In doing so he provocatively continues the project he began with Between Film and Screen breaking new ground in visual studies, cinema history and media theory
