Kim, Franklin Vernon, Matthew Wolfram, 2020-09-03 This book examines the true costs of attendance faced by low and moderate income students on four public college campuses and the consequences of these costs on students academic pathways and their social financial health and emotional well being The authors exploration of the true costs of academics living expenses and student services leads them to conclude that current college policies and practices do not support low income and otherwise marginalized students well being or success To counter this they suggest that reform efforts should begin by asking value based questions about the goals of public higher education and end by crafting class responsive policies They propose three tools that policymakers can use to do this work and steps that every person can take to revitalize public support for public education equity producing policies and democratic participation in the public arena Consumer Optimization Problem Solving Alfred L Norman, 2014-12-15 What algorithms are tractable depends on the speed of the processor Given the speed of digital computers polynomial algorithms are considered tractable But a human can take several seconds to make one binary comparison between two pens Given this slow speed sublinear algorithms are considered tractable for an unaided human and this defines Simon s concept of bounded rationality Humans make simplifications to solve the intractable consumer optimization problem Consumers search for goods and services item by item which greatly reduces the number of alternatives to consider In addition consumers have operators that can process a set in a single operation Also consumers budget by incremental adjustment In considering consumer performance the question to ask is how close to optimal is consumer performance and not whether consumers optimize as a yes no question Given the ordinal nature of utility theory this creates a basic measurement problem The book presents a review of the literature on consumer performance This is an opportune time to study consumer procedures because the Internet provides a media to make substantial improvements in consumer performance The book includes a case study comparing the performance of a digital camera selection code with the advice of sales people A field experiment demonstrates that the software code provides better advice

Textbooks in Academic Libraries Chris Diaz,2018-12-03 Shortly after the syllabi are posted and long before the beginning of the term interlibrary loan departments at academic libraries will have filled or rejected innumerable textbook requests While it would be unwise if not impossible to buy and circulate every textbook at a college or university there are many academic libraries who are selectively adding textbooks to their collections And the practice seems to be gaining momentum In this volume the Association for Library Collections and Technical Services ALCTS and editor Chris Diaz gather case studies that pull together creative approaches and best practices for print textbook reserve programs This book discusses such topics as results and analysis from a detailed survey of a state university's core course textbook reserve program funding sources for starting or piloting a program using aggregated enrollment grade and textbook cost data to identify high impact courses identifying course related books that are in the library's collection or fit an existing collection policy workflow for using bookstore data with ILS and purchasing systems and using LibGuides and Google Sheets to publicize textbook holdings and how a back end database supports discovery for students and reporting for reserves staff A textbook reserve program can be one way of helping students who are struggling with the high cost of textbooks and this book spotlights a variety of examples that can be used as models
